President Opposes Issues For Public Works; Favors Aiding Revenue Projects

Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, May 23.—President Hoover is opposed to all congressional proposals for bond issues for public works which are non-revenue producing.

In a long letter to Richard S. Parker, president of the American Society of Civil Engineers, published today, the President declared he favors only his program of loans for socalled "productive" building projects.

His letter said:

I am in receipt of your kind letter of May 19, and I have also the presentation of the subcommittee of the society suggesting that the depression can be broken by a large issue of federal government bonds to finance a new program of huge expansion of "public works" construction, in addition to the already large programs now provided for in the current budgets. The same proposals have been made from other quarters and have been given serious consideration during the past few days.

The back of the depression cannot be broken by any single government undertaking. That can only be done with the cooperation of business, banking, industry and agriculture in conjunction with the government.

Outlines U. S. Aid

The aid the government may give includes:

A—The quick, drastic balancing of the federal budget through drastic reduction of less necessary expenses and the minimum increase in taxes.

B—The avoidance of issue of further Treasury securities as the very keystone of national and international confidence upon which all employment rests.

C—The continuation of the work of the Reconstruction Corporation, which has overcome the financial strain on thousands of small banks, releasing credit to their communities, the strengthening of building and loan associations, the furnishing of credit to agriculture, the protection of trustee institutions and the support of financial stability of the railways.

D—The expansion of credit by the Federal Reserve banks.

E—The organized translation of these credits into actualities for business and public bodies.

F—Unceasing effort at sound strengthening of the foundations of agriculture.

Favors Five-Day Week

G—The continuation of such public works in aid to unemployment as does not place a strain on the taxpayer and do not necessitate government borrowing.

H—Continuation of national, community and individual efforts in relief of distress.

I—The introduction of the five-day week in government which would save the discharge of 100,000 employes and would add 30,000 to the present list.

J—The passage of the home loan discount bank legislation which would protect home owners from foreclosure and would furnish millions of dollars of employment in home improvement without cost to the treasury.

K—Financial aid by means of loans from the Reconstruction Corporation to such states as, due to the long strain, are unable to continue to finance distress relief.

L—The extension of the authority of the Reconstruction Corporation not only in a particular I called attention to last December—that is, loans on sound security to industry where

Two Held In Loan Shortage

C. C. Donkin, alias Charles Chalmers, of New York, is being held in County Jail here on charges of conspiracy to defraud and extortion in connection with an alleged shortage of between $80,000 and $90,000 in the funds of the Modern Building and Loan Association of Pittsburgh.

Donkin was brought here from New York yesterday by detectives after a meeting was arranged by Howard E. Wandless, secretary of the Modern Building and Loan Association, who accused Donkin of extorting money from him.

Wandless is also being held under bond charged with conspiracy to defraud. The informations against both men were sworn by George F. Taylor, Jr., deputy state secretary of banking.

MEET IN NEW YORK

The meeting in New York was arranged at a corner in Greenwich Village. According to detectives, Wandless had told Donkin he would have more money for him, and the latter was prompt in keeping the appointment.

A packet of telegrams which Donkin is alleged to have sent to Wandless including demands for money backed by pleas and threats was reported turned over to authorities. The nature of the threats has not been disclosed. New York detectives, after wiring Pittsburgh, arranged for the waiving of extradition in bringing Donkin to Pennsylvania.

ACCUSER SILENT

The informations were filed before Alderman Thomas A. Flanigan. Taylor would not comment.

The Modern Building and Loan Association has a capital of approximately $200,000. It has offices at 433 Fourth avenue.

Universal Service.

WASHINOTON, May 23.—Democrats and Progressives in Congress accept President Hoover's challenge on public works relief legislation.

President Hoover's reiterated opposition to a federal bond issue to stimulate business recovery and provide jobs for millions of unemployed led spokesmen for the Democratic-Progressive coalition immediately to announce they are ready to battle out the issue with Mr. Hoover on the floor of Congress.

The impending fight for unemployment relief throws adjournment of Congress further away, with indications the sessions may run well into the summer.

HOUSE KILLS MOVE FOR BEER

First Record Vote Since 1919 Brings Defeat to Anti-Prohibition Bloc

WASHINGTON, May 23.—(AP.)—The House of Representatives today flatly turned down the proposal to legalize and tax 2.75 per cent beer.

The vote was 228 to 169, with party lines split wide.

The issue was on whether to discharge the Ways and Means Committee of consideration of the Hull-O'Connor measure and put it before the House for a rollcall.

Sponsored by Democratic and Republican anti-dry blocs, the bill to levy a three cents a pint tax on 2.75 per cent beer, was brought up on a petition of 145 members.

20 MINUTES' DEBATE

It was the first record vote in the House on beer since 1919, and came after 20 minutes' debate.

The Senate recently rejected proposals for legalizing beer.

The rollcall today came after Speaker Garner had overriden a parliamentary objection by Representative Blanton (Dem.), of Texas, who contended it was out of order since the House already had voted on submission of the prohibition issue.

During the debate, Representative Britten (Rep.), of Illinois, said the President had appealed for something constructive to balance the budget and help the country. Amide applause he added:

"This bill will do it."

Representative Linthicum (Dem.), of Maryland, sponsor of the submission resolution, urged support of the bill.

LA GUARDIA PLEA

Representative LaGuardia (Rep.), of New York, said:

"There's been considerable lip service on the question of balancing the budget. This is a bill that would let you decide whether the internal revenue should balance the budget or the bootleggers and racketeers shall continue to get the money."

Representative Granfield (Dem.), of Massachusetts, said:

"This bill will write into the Volstead act a san, sensible and honest definition of intoxicating beverages as a substitute for the present dishonest legal limit of one-half of one per cent which has been characterized repeatedly as a 'legislative lie.'"

Representative Sabath (Dem.), of Illinois, said:

"The country demands this legislation."

BORAH TO SHUN CONVENTION

WASHINGTON, May 23.—(INS.)—Senator William E. Borah, of Idaho, announced today that he is not going to attend the Republic convention in Chicago next month, and he strongly intimated that he expects to take no part in the ensuing Republican campaign.

The news created a first-class political stir in the capital, for it had been generally thought that the Idahoan would go to Chicago to lead the dry fight against including in the Republican platform a resubmission plank.

The relations between Senator Borah and President Hoover have been extremely cool for many months. Rarely is the Idahoan at the White House these days. To his intimate friends, Borah makes no secret of his "disappointment" with the man whom he labored so hard for in the campaign of 1928.

Vicki Baum Injured When Horse Bolts

NEW YORK, May 23.—(INS.)—The condition of Vicki Baum, German dramatist and author, who wrote "Grand Hotel," remained serious today. Injured in a fall from a runaway horse, she was suffering from a possible concussion of the brain, several broken ribs and head injuries.

Mrs. Baum yesterday was riding with Capt. and Mrs. Arthur O'Brien in the Jamaica woods when a squirrel ran in front of her mount. The horse bolted and threw Mrs. Baum.

Amelia Goes Shopping, Drinks Toast in Water

Mellon Sips Whisky; Flier Feted as 'Good Fellow'

LONDON, May 23.—(AP.)—Mrs. Amelia Earhart Putnam, the first woman to fly the Atlantic solo, demonstrated today that she is exactly as efficient at the feminine business of shopping as she is at the hardier pursuit of flying an airplane.

After a light breakfast at the American embassy, where she is staying, she sped off to the West End shopping center before 9 o'clock.

She completed her purchases in time to attend a luncheon given by the Institute of Journalists—and speed had no effect on her efficiency. On all sides she received congratulations on the excellent taste displayed in her emergency apparel—emergency because when she landed in Ireland Friday all she had with her were the flying clothes on her back.

WASHINGTON, May 23.—(AP.)—President Hoover returned to the White House today after an early morning drive from his mountain retreat on the Rapidan, where he had spent the week-end.

FLEE WITH LOOT IN HOLDUP

NEW CASTLE, Pa., May 23.—Four men armed with sub-machine guns and sawed-off shotguns held up a money convoy in front of the Mahoning Trust Company here today, shot and killed a city patrolman who was acting as guard, and escaped with $23,000 in cash.

State police said the bandits threw nails from their car for 18 miles, as far as Columbiana, O., in hopes of puncturing the tires of pursuit cars.

The dead policeman was Clarence Campbell, 41, one of New Castle's best known peace officers and the father of four children.

He was shot without warning before he even could reach for his revolver.

ESCAPE IN AUTO

Leon McCreery, a bank teller who was in a car trailing the money carrier, said the bandits escaped in a battered Buick sedan bearing Ohio license 282-348. It was driven down route 18, then to route 17 and headed toward Canton, O.

The money was being taken from the First National, in Washington street, to the Mahoning Trust, a subsidiary, a weekly custom.

The latter bank is in the Liberty Hotel Building, Liberty avenue, in the Seventh Ward, formerly known as Mahoningtown.

As the money car stopped in front of the bank, a man sitting in a chair in front of the hotel,

4 SOUGHT HELP FOR GANG KING

Promised N. J. Governor to Help Find Child If 'Al' Was Given 'Full Credit'

TRENTON, N. J., May 23.—(AP.)—Gov. A. Harry Moore today confirmed reports that three weeks ago four reputed agents of Al Capone, imprisoned Chicago gang leader, approached him at midnight with an offer to aid in the Lindbergh case.

Gov. Moore said that he was walking home when the four men suddenly grouped around him and told him who they were. He said he felt "none too comfortable," and added:

"I had just passed a policeman whom I knew and that was a bit of comfort. I stopped where I was and decided to call him if necessary."

ASK 'FULL CREDIT'

The men told the Governor they would give all assistance in obtaining the return of the baby, whose body was found shortly after that about five miles from the Lindbergh home, provided Capone, who is serving a term in Atlanta Penitentiary, is given "full credit."

The Governor said:

"They said they believed Al Capone could help get the baby. I promised to give their information to Col. Lindbergh, which I did."

'Jafsie' in Massachusetts In Hunt for Kidnapers

GREAT BARRINGTON, Mass., May 23.—(AP.)—Dr. John F. Condon, the "Jafsie" who paid $50,000 in an attempt to effect the return of the kidnaped Lindbergh baby, arrived in Great Barrington today and said he would organize a search for the kidnapers in this vicinity.

Dr. Condon left his home in New York early in the morning in an automobile driven by a one-armed neighbor, but declined to reveal his destination.

He was equally secretive upon his arrival here and, except to say that he planned to organize the search for the kidnapers in New England, would not discuss his reasons for coming here. He said later in the day he planned to visit Pittsfield.

The driver of Condon's car was Walter Goodwin, of the Bronx. A sister of Goodwin said Dr. Condon had been a friend of the family for many years. She declined to give any information regarding today's trip except to say she understood her brother would be away over night.

The educator, who carried a heavy coat over his arm, started

DOG ON LUGGAGE

The back [illegible] automobile a coach appeared to be filled with luggage covered with a blanket on top of which was a police dog. A small suitcase was strapped on the luggage [illegible] on the rear of the car.

As he was leaving the house the driver of the car refused to disclose his identity or his destination. His only comment was that the dog was a real German police dog. Asked if he meant the dog was trained for the apprehension of criminals the man answered: Yes.

Motoring up the Bronx River Parkway they traveled to Wingdale. There Dr. Condon talked for a few minutes with a man at the construction site of the Harlem Valley State Hospital. The hospital is to be a branch of Grasslands, a state institution for the criminal insane.

Then Condon and his driver headed toward Millerton.

OUTDISTANCE SLEUTHS

An automobile containing two New York City detectives followed Dr. Condon to Scarsdale where the two cars pulled to the side of the road and Condon held a short conversation with the detectives. Condon then re-entered his own car. They drove off at high speed, soon outdistancing the detectives' car. When they reached Wingdale the detectives were not in sight.

Dr. Condon said yesterday he had intended to make a trip to Newport, R. I., adding that if it had not been for the storm he would have flown to Block Island Saturday night.

Action Against Curtis By Grand Jury Awaited

HOPEWELL, N. J., May 23.—(AP)—John H. Curtis, hoax negotiator in the Lindbergh kidnap case, awaited action of the grand jury in the Flemington Jail today.

The Hunterdon County grand jury was sitting today but Prosecutor Anthony Hauck indicated the Curtis case probably would not be reached until another day. Testimony is to be heard first in a murder and manslaughter case and the prosecutor said the number of witnesses he was to call in these cases almost precluded the possibility of reaching consideration of the faked negotiations with the Lindbergh baby kidnapers today.

In his news bulletin today Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, superintendent of state police, who had been in general charge of the police investigation of the kidnaping and murder of the baby, said he had not yet been subpenaed to appear before the grand jury and that Prosecutor Hauck had not advised him yet whether the Curtis case would be presented today. He said Curtis was now out of the jurisdiction of the state police, and the next move in this angle of the case must come from the prosecutor.

DEAN STANDS FIRM

Schwarzkopf said the Rev. H. Dobson-Peacock, associate of Curtis in the latter's imaginary negotiations with the kidnapers, who has refused to come here for questioning "so as to vindicate himself," had still failed to accept the invitation.

Schwarzkopf's complete morning bulletin follows:

"No report has been received as yet on the analysis of the soil taken from the vicinity where the body of the Lindbergh baby was found.

"As stated in previous bulletins, Curtis is now out of our jurisdiction and any further action must come from Prosecutor Hauck.

"Investigators from this point are still checking on the gangster who, it is alleged, told a story (in Maryland) in reference to the finding of the body previous to May 12, and are still out. If, upon their return, anything of news value which will not hamper the investigation is received same will be released in later bulletins.

"As John Curtis mentioned Dobson-Peacock in his statement as being involved with him in his activities, Peacock was requested to come to New Jersey to face Curtis so as to vindicate himself. To date he has refused to accept this invitation.

"Col. Schwarzkopf has not as yet been subpenaed to appear before the Hunterdon County grand jury. Prosecutor Hauck has not advised us as yet as to whether the case against Curtis is to be presented to the grand jury today."

Curtis' attorney, William C. Pender, conferred with the prosecutor yesterday after a trip to Philadelphia where he was understood to have tried without success to raise $10,000 bail.

DEAN FLAYS GOSSIPS

NORFOLK, Va., May 23.—(AP)—Details and time for arranging bail for John Hughes Curtis, held in a New Jersey jail after confessing that his negotiations to recover the Lindbergh baby were hoaxed, are being left entirely in the hands of his attorney, W. C. Pender, it was announced today.

Meanwhile the Rev. H. Dobson-Peacock remained a staunch defender of the story originally told by his associate.

From his pulpit yesterday, Dean Dobson-Peacock reiterated his faith in this story and criticized gossipers, who, he said, "commit the unforgivable sin in taking away from a man his good name." He praised the action of Joseph T. Deal, former Congressman, in using a statement here asking that judgment of Curtis be withheld until the complete story is known.

MORE INTREPID FLIERS -:- -:- By Quin Hall

3D MAN CAUGHT IN KIDNAPING

YOUNGSTOWN, O., May 23.—(AP)—Tony Laree, 37, of Youngstown, was in jail here today charged with being the "third man" long sought in the kidnaping of Jimmie de Jute, of Niles, March 2, a crime for which two other men already are serving penitentiary terms.

Laree said to have been identified as the man who drove a coupe in which the 11-year-old Niles boy was kidnaped, was caught in Weirton, W. Va., early today by Detective H. H. Hampton, of Trumbull County, after a chase from Girard, O.

Laree, who has a wife in Youngstown, has been the object of a wide search since the kidnaping. Jimmie de Jute, son of a Niles contractor, was found 76 hours after he had been kidnaped in a former gambling house where he had been hidden behind a wall panel.

next door, arose with a cardboard box in his hand.

Suddenly, as Campbell stepped from the car, the man, dressed in a dark suit and wearing leather puttees after the fashion of surveyors, let the box fall away from the short-barreled shotgun it had concealed. He said:

"Throw up your hands!"

Simultaneously with the words, he shot. The shotgun's charge dropped Campbell, dying, to the sidewalk.

The bag containing the money fell by his side.

Two other men had dashed out of the hotel lobby. They thrust sub-machine guns through the door of the money car, covering Ashley Hill, assistant treasurer of the bank, and William McComlas, a teller, whom Campbell had been guarding.

FLEE IN AUTO

The killer grabbed the money bag and, joined by the others, he raced to a nearby alley where a fourth man awaited with the getaway car's motor idling.

Witnesses told police three of the men wore dark suits, the driver a light gray one.

The holdup occurred half an hour before the bank opened.

State police said registry of the bandits' car had been traced to Lorain, O.

Bank officials said the money was divided into $8,000 in $20 bills, $7,000 in tens, $5,000 in fives and $3,000 in ones, much of it new and unused bills, with consecutive serial numbers.

342 BONUS VETS AWAIT RIDE

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill., May 23.—(AP)—The 342 unemployed World War veterans, mostly from Oregon, who still hope to ride a Baltimore and Ohio freight train to Washington to urge pending bonus legislation, moved their camp today and waited developments.

Also waiting developments were Baltimore and Ohio officials, the East St. Louis police department and the sheriff of St. Clair County. The railroad has demanded the arrest of all the veterans for trespass and interfering with operation of a freight train after they made futile efforts yesterday to hop a train.

The five policemen detailed to the camp declined to attempt the arrests unless their chief, who was reported to be out of town, ordered the action.

The former soldiers had announced they expected to have about eight empty box cars attached to an eastbound train yesterday so they could ride in comfort. When the Baltimore and Ohio appeared unenthusiastic, the veterans scrambled aboard a freight train shortly after 3 p. m. just as it was ready to leave. After a long wait the engine was sent back to the roundhouse. At 11 p. m. the veterans scrambled off again and some time later the train departed.

Farmer Confesses Slaying of Wife

MUSKEGON, Mich., May 23.—(AP)—John Kozun, 41, has confessed, officers said, that he killed his wife, then buried her body beneath a woodshed, later laying a concrete floor to conceal the grave.

Officers found the body where Kozun said he had buried it. The slaying came during a fight at their farm home, Kozun said in his confession, his wife attacking him with an ax and he using a hammer.

CONGRESS MAY STAY ON JOB UNTIL JULY

Filibuster Threatened by Rebels Against Tariff Levies; Reed, Moses Act

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, May 23.—A rather sullen Congress today faced a continuous session through the approaching national political conventions, due to the Senate's embroilment with the new tax bill and the necessity of enacting governmental economy and unemployment relief programs before adjournment.

Administration leaders harassed by a tariff war in the Senate, announced there was no longer any hope of adjourning Congress by June 10, so its members might attend the conventions. This was the declaration of Senator Watson of Indiana, Republican leader of the Senate.

REED, MOSS ACT

Watson made his statement after Senators Reed (Rep.), of Pennsylvania, and Moses (Rep.), of New Hampshire, demanded that Congress forego attendance in order to complete its legislative program by July 1, the end of the fiscal year. Watson said:

"It is more important to balance the federal budget before we start a new fiscal year than it is to attend the conventions. It is more important to provide reasonable measures for the relief of the unemployment situation than it is to go to Chicago and help choose nominees for President.

"I see no chance of completing our necessary legislative program before the first of July. We will be lucky if we balance the budget by then, to say nothing of enacting unemployment relief legislation. There will be no getting away for the conventions. Why, I can't get away for my own state convention in Indiana, which meets June 8 and 9, and before which I am a candidate for renomination. No, I believe we'll be in continuous session up until the Fourth of July."

REVOLT OVER TARIFF

The fly in the congressional ointment was the "revenge campaign" launched by opponents of the oil tariff in the Senate. Led by Senator Tydings (Dem.), of Maryland, who introduced 500 amendments to the tax bill, this group declared it would block passage of the tax bill so long as it carried an oil tariff. The rate, ½ cent a gallon on oil imports, was adopted Friday by a vote of 43 to 37, when a tariff coalition won out over the Tydings group. Its adoption was followed by approval of a coal tariff and indicated adoption of lumber and copper duties.

The Tydings revolt threatened to keep Congress in session for many weeks. It would require months of legislative effort to dispose of his 500 amendments.

The pending question in the Senate was the proposed lumber tariff of $3 per thousand feet. Its adoption was predicted because of the strength of the tariff coalition.

Billion and Half Job Aid Proposed

WASHINGTON, May 23.—(INS.)—A bill authorizing the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to issue $1,500,000,000 in debentures to finance self-liquidating projects "of national character," as a means of affording unemployment relief, was introduced in the Senate today by Senator Barbour (Rep.), of New Jersey.

The proposal was in line with President Hoover's idea of authorizing only such construction at this time as could pay for itself out of earnings, such as toll bridges, tunnels, highways, etc.

COURT GUARDED AGAINST REDS

WASHINGTON, May 23.—(AP)—Communist threats of a demonstration hurried a detail of city police today to guard the Supreme Court.

The precautionary measures were taken at the request of the captain of the capitol police. Last Monday the court was under police guard, but no demonstration developed.

Communist quarters are aroused over the case of seven Negroes under sentence of death in Scottsboro, Ala., for attacks on two white women.

Meanwhile, 20 metropolitan police were sent to the Capitol to assist the regular force in preventing any demonstration by a group of soldier bonus advocates slated to march to the building as Congress convened.

Hoover Misdirects Letter to Engineers

WASHINGTON, May 23.—(INS.)—President Hoover's letter to the president of the American Society of Civil Engineers opposing a federal bond issue for public works not in themselves self-liquidating was addressed to "Richard S. Parker" and the President saluted him "My Dear Mr. Parker."

It should have been Herbert S. Crocker, as he is president of the American Society of Civil Engineers.

method to cope with the emergency unemployment problem.

Speaker Garner only a few days ago advanced a plan calling for $1,000,000,000 in federal construction, to be paid off by a tax on gasoline.

A $5000,000,000 bond issue was contained in the relief program put forward by Senate Democrats.

Aside from the public works provisions, these two plans follow substantially President Hoover's views for loans to states for direct unemployment relief and advances through the Reconstruction Finance Corporation for income-producing projects.

The third major plan, without the White House - Democratic scheme of self-liquidating construction, calls for a $5,000,000,000 federal prosperity loan. It is sponsored by Senator La Follette (Rep.), of Wisconsin, and Representative Black (Dem.), of New York.

DEMOCRATS TO FIGHT

Democrats have no intention to drop their program, declared Senator Bulkley, of Ohio, a member of the committee which drafted the Senate Democratic program totaling $2,300,000,000.

The $5,000,000,000 prosperity loan will be introduced as an amendment to whatever relief bill is brought to the floor, Senator La Follette announced.

Senator Brookhart (Rep.), of Iowa, said:

"We ought to issue public bonds and treasury notes in whatever amount is needed to put the unemployed to work and restore commodity prices to a normal level. Congress doesn't dare go back home without enacting a public works relief program. That includes Republican leaders."

A Republican-Democratic coalition in the House is planning a mass meeting this week to consolidate support for the $5,000,000,000 prosperity loan.

GOV. ROOSEVELT SATISFACTORY TO DRYS

Not 'Real Wet' Despite His Repeal Statement, Prohibition Paper Says

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, May 23.—(INS.)—If Herbert Hoover and Franklin D. Roosevelt are the opposing candidates for the presidency in November, the organized drys of the country will have reason to feel fairly well satisfied—irrespective of what the party platforms may propose with respect to prohibition.

This is the conclusion reached by the Methodist board of prohibition, temperance and public morals, which, through its secretary, Deets Pickett, came out today with a left-handed indorsement of Roosevelt despite his statement that he favors repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment.

NOT REAL 'WET'

After carefully weighing all the factors involved in the Democratic situation, the Methodist drys have come to the conclusion that Gov. Roosevelt is not "a real wet," according to Secretary Pickett. Writing in The Voice, a publication circulated principally among Methodist clergy, Pickett declared that if Roosevelt is the Democratic nominee the drys will "have no reason to feel that prohibition has been repudiated."

The Methodist board some time ago gave its blessing to President Hoover on the prohibition question.

Just what inspired the Methodist drys' apparent willingness to accept Roosevelt is not known except that the New York Governor has pointedly ignored the prohibition issue since his initial declaration in favor of repeal and that the bulk of his support comes from the Democratic drys of the South and West.

REPEAL STATEMENT

The article in The Voice explains Gov. Roosevelt's repeal statement as probably necessary for him to hold his New York strength.

And while Gov. Roosevelt is not to be considered the drys' first choice for the Democratic nomination (no first choice is mentioned) "it would be a mistake," the article continues, "to consider him what is ordinarily known as a soaking wet." The article declares:

"When he was in Washington, we knew him as a dry. His wife, unless she has very recently changed her opinions, is a prohibitionist, and has made prohibition speeches. Gov. Roosevelt is a man who has no natural sympathy with the saloon."

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., May 23.—(INS.)—The report of the committee on temperance, prohibition and public morals, of the Methodist Episcopal Church, declared in a published report today that there is no authority in the Federal Constitution for a popular referendum on prohibition and reaffirmed the committee's faith in the Eighteenth Amendment.

The report, published in today's issue of the Christian Advocate, was placed in the hands of the delegates to the general conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church meeting here.

It was expected an effort would be made to have the report formally approved by the conference.

Handwriting of Prisoners Scanned in Lindy Hunt

PHILADELPHIA, May 23.—(AP)—Examination of the handwriting of prisoners arrested since the Lindbergh baby was kidnaped is requested in a circular sent out by the New Jersey state police and received here today.

The circular contains two specimens of handwriting in two notes transmitted by alleged kidnapers of the baby. The circular, dated Saturday and signed by Supt. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, of the New Jersey state police, reproduces specimens of handwriting represented in two notes which read:

"Cross the street and walk to next corner and follow Whittemore ave. to the soud. Take the money with you. Come alone and walk. I will meet you."

"The boy is on Boad Nelly. It is a small boad 28 feet long, two persons are on the boad, the are innosent. You will find the boad between Horseneck Beach and Gay Head near Elisabeth Island."

The circular did not state whether the specimens were taken from notes addressed to Dr. John F. Condon, the "Jafsie" of the Lindbergh case, who held rendezvous with the purported kidnapers.

The word "boad" used in one of the notes is taken to mean "boat," police said.

Flying Ambition Balked, Boy Ends Life in Plane

CHICAGO, May 23.—(AP)—Nineteen-year-old Ernest Langyel shot himself fatally yesterday while on a $3 sight-seeing ride in an airplane—a gesture against the fates which prevented his becoming an aviator.

Langyel had long dreamed of being a pilot, his family said, and brooded because finances prevented it. At home he left a note saying:

"Death is better than a life of monotony."

Pilot William Daily took Langyel aloft, the youth wearing helmet and goggles he purchased in hope of some day using them in piloting a plane. Daily said:

"Just as I was starting to land he tapped my shoulder and asked, 'Are we going to light?' I nodded and turned back to the controls.

"A moment later I heard a shot, turned and saw him slumped in the seat with a wound in his head. I don't even remember landing the plane, but I got down quick."

In the cockpit, Daily found a 22-caliber rifle. Its barrel and stock had been sawed off, making it small enough to be carried in a pocket. Langyel died in a hospital.

MRS. FORTESCUE SLATED TO TELL OF PERIL IN PACIFIC

GIBBONS ALSO TO TESTIFY IN HOUSE

Hearing on Plan to Place Hawaii Under Military Rule Opens Tomorrow

WASHINGTON, May 23.—(AP.)—Mrs. Granville Fortescue, one of those convicted in the recent trial at Honolulu, is expected to tell the House Territories Committee tomorrow whether she thinks the islands should be placed under military control.

Others scheduled to testify include her husband, Maj. Fortescue; Gen. Doutlas MacArthur, Gen. Donglas MacArthur, V. Pratt, chief of naval operations; Secretary Wilbur, of the Interior Department, and Floyd Gibbons, war correspondent.

VIEWS OF BRITTEN

Maj. and Mrs. Fortescue are the parents of Mrs. Thalia Massis, who was alleged to have been attacked by Hawaiian natives. The trial was precipitated by the slaying of one of the reputed attackers.

Commenting to newspapermen today on his bill to establish military control, Representative Britten (Rep.), of Illinois, said whether it would disfranchise Hawaiians—absolutely take their vote away from them—"is of no importance in my opinion." He added:

"The Hawaiian Islands are more important to us than Gibraltar to England. No nation would bother our western coast until it had destroyed the fortifications and facilities in Hawaii.

"We should go ahead and strengthen our fortifications there, both for the Army and Navy, and be ready for any eventuality. The only way we can do this is to place the islands under military control."

POINTS OUT PERIL

Britten recalled that a large percentage of the islands' population is Japanese and warned that "if we had trouble with Japan we certainly couldn't expect much help from them."

He said Mrs. Fortescue would discuss the "mental slant of the Japanese in Hawaii toward things not oriental.

HANGING OF BOY MYSTERY

MAYSVILLE, Mo., May 23.—(AP.)—A question of murder or suicide raised in the hanging of a 7-year-old farm boy, Edward Franklin West, today remained unanswered after a coroner's inquest.

Mrs. Virgie West, 31, stepmother of the boy, who was detained for questioning, denied knowledge of his death. He was hanged in a garage at the West home. His father, Otis A. West, found the body upon his return from work in the fields.

Joseph T. Duncan, St. Joseph, Mo., chief of detectives, said it would have been impossible for the victim to have tied the knot. He said:

"The boy was hanged by some adult."

The coroner's jury returned an open verdict. No charges were filed. Sheriff Vern Campbell said the case would be submitted to the grand jury at its regular meeting next fall.

The fighting followed downfall of the cabinet of Premier Venizelos, precipitating a serious crisis. Former Premier Alexander Papanastasiou was delegated to form a new ministry.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., May 23.—(AP.)—An angry bull strayed to the Kanawha Country Club golf course from a nearby field, causing consternation among players and the animal's death. The bull's wild scramble about the course sent a number of golfers shinning up trees. Witnesses were vague on details, but most of them agreed the animal was killed when struck by an iron rod of some sort, probably a mashie.

AMELIA SHOPS FOR GOWNS IN LONDON

Andrew W. Mellon, at a dinner at the American embassy.

Ambassador Mellon was at the luncheon today, as was Sir John Simon, British foreign secretary. The large assemblage cheered heartily as Sir John bowed and congratulated the smiling flier on her feat.

Using a glass of water, Mrs. Earhart drank a toast to the President of the United States and another to the King. Mr. Mellon, seated at her side, performed that ceremony with the aid of whisky and soda.

The Ambassador paid warm tribute to the tousled-haired airwoman. Mr. Mellon said:

"An event of major importance that grips the imagination, such as the airplane flight of that courageous young woman alone across the Atlantic last week, can thrill the whole world so that for a moment at least all of us have something in common and can think and feel as a unit."

PRAISES NEWSPAPERS

This unity, he continued, was largely the result of the service rendered by newspapers. That observation led him to the problems of newspaper work, concerning which he made this declaration:

"What we must strive for is to present facts earnestly, accurately and without malice or conscious effort to misrepresent, remembering that the world is no less great now than in the time of war and that all our energies must be used in constructive efforts to counterbalance the forces of evil and disintegration and to restore again the economic health of the world."

Mrs. Putnam received an ovation from the newspapermen when Ralph D. Blumenfeld, editor of the Daily Express, proposed a toast to her. He said:

"I hereby retract my pet theory—that a woman never did anything really valuable."

The audience arose and sang, "For She's a Jolly Good Fellow," and lustily shouted hip-hip hurrahs.

The flier responded gracefully. She said:

"I am happy to be in London. My trip is just informal and I hope while here to poke about the city and see some places I missed when I was here before."

NATIONS CLOSER

The foreign secretary made a brief speech in which he remarked that Britain and America never were so close to each other as right now—as Mrs. Putnam had proved by flying over in 13 hours and 30 minutes.

Mrs. Putnam's estimate of her flying time from Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, to Culmore, Ireland, was 13½ hours.

She landed at Hanworth Airdrome last night during a terrific thunderstorm after a flight from Londonderry, Northern Ireland, in a borrow plane.

The crowd which greeted her as she splashed to a landing at Hanworth was small but enthusiastic. Other thousands had gone to the Croydon Airport, believing she would land there.

Among the group at Hanworth was Ambassador Mellon, who welcomed her officially as she arrived at the club house, under an umbrella held by two officers of the field. She said:

"I don't mind the rain. I got used to it Friday night."

MAKES FRIENDS QUICKLY

The slim young woman made friends instantly with the crowd by her quiet smile and gay manner.

"Here's your money."

So a friend told her a few minutes after she landed. (She carried only $20 in her pocket when she set out on her flight and her husband had cabled funds from New York). She whispered:

"Keep it until we get out of the crowd."

A newspaper man asked:

"Have you talked with your husband?"

It was one of the volley of questions that greeted her. She replied:

"Oh, yes! The first thing I do always is check in like a good girl."

Today the newspapers were filled with the story of her flight, a struggle with storms and failing apparatus from Harbor Grace, N. F., to the pasture near Londonderry where she landed. Most of them printed editorials of hearty tribute to her courage and skill.

She interrupted her trip to the Embassy from the flying field last night to broadcast her experiences by radio to the United States. After an hour at the British Broadcasting Company she refused to do anything else until she talked to her husband, George Palmer Putnam, by telephone and had a bite to eat.

She scarcely had arrived at the clubhouse on the flying field when Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald called on the telephone from his home at Lossiemouth, Scotland, where he is recuperating from an operation on his eyes, to welcome her officially.

Miss Earhart said she would leave Europe for home about June 10, without going back to Ireland to supervise the crating of her plane which will be dismantled and sent back to the United States.

She said she would go from London to Rome, where an international conference of transoceanic fliers is being held.

He declared he would make the Southampton hop at less speed than that with which he crossed the ocean, an average of about 90 m. p. h.

BOY HANGS SELF IN PRANK

WASHINGTON, Pa., May 23.—Edward Marks, 18, of Houston, is dead today—the victim of a prank he played upon his girl friend, the Coroner reported.

He was found hanging from a tree in Arnold Hollow, near Houston, late yesterday by Margaret Wylie, 17, whom he had accompanied on a picnic with her younger brother and sister.

Deputy Coroner W. J. McNary, of Canonsburg, said the girl's brother strayed from the party as they were returning home and she went in search of him.

In her absence, he said, Marks apparently planned a mock hanging as a "scare." Unable to loosen the belt by which he was suspended, the girl ran nearly a mile to Houston and summoned his brother, Alexander. Marks was dead on their arrival.

A number of prominent motion picture personages already are at Rambouillet as Miss White's guests. They include Mrs. Ben R. Thropp, the former Ruby de Remer, of the films; Pauline Garon, actress, and Walter Lang, director.

Before leaving Cannes, Jessel told International News Service that he and Miss Talmadge were "forced to deny any engagement until definite action has been taken." He intimated Miss Talmadge would soon file suit for divorce from Joseph M. Schenck at Nice, and some reports were current that such action already has been taken.

On her arrival in Paris from the United States several weeks ago, however, Miss Talmadge declared she had changed her mind and would not sue.

TOLD GIRLS' AGE BY TEETH, SAYS RECTOR

Appraised Beauty Like Horseflesh, Minister Says, Accused of Misconduct

By H. K. REYNOLDS
International News Service.

LONDON, May 23.—A strange tale of how he opened waitresses' lips and looked at their teeth "just like you'd look at a horse to see its age" was unfolded in Consistory Court today by the Rev. Harold Francis Davidson, 60-year-old rector, on trial on charges involving more than a score of girls.

The clergyman, rector of Stiffkey Church, Norfolk, was again questioned in detail concerning his relations with tea-shop waitresses and actresses.

PATTED CHEEKS

He admitted that he sometimes patted waitresses' cheeks in addition to looking at their teeth. It was the chancellor, presiding at the trial, who observes that the rector's means of appraising feminine beauty was akin to that of a veterinarian sizing up horseflesh.

The clergyman also admitted giving waitresses cigarets in lieu of tips. He said in his testimony:

"I helped more to produce films in London, getting extra jobs for girls of my acquaintance."

He flatly denies charges involving Nellie Churchill, a former artist's model. The landlady of a roominghouse had testified that she found him and the girl in a darkened bedroom one night. He said:

"I couldn't get the gas to light."

SEEKS GIRL WITNESSES

Davidson told the court he had "spoken to" more than 500 girls during the last 10 years and asked the chancellor to summon 481 of them as witnesses. He said he believed that among this number would be some who would be able to identify two girls whose names he does not know, who would be able to give "certain evidence" in his defense.

Of the 500 to whom he has spoken, he said, he gave "fatherly advice" to at least 200.

SALE TAX URGED BY LITCHFIELD

LOS ANGELES, May 23.—(Universal)—What is keeping prosperity from the grasp of the American people?

Paul W. Litchfield, of Akron, O., president of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company and president of the Goodyear Zeppelin Corporation, gave his answer today. He said:

"The whole trouble lies in Washington. Business was on the verge of improvement when the tax bill, indorsed by both parties, was thrown out of the House by insurgents, who substituted insane and unwise proposals.

"We cannot hope for a return of prosperity until the original tax bill, with its general manufacturers' sales tax, is passed.

"William Randolph Hearst has sponsored and advocated this sales tax as a safe and sane route for Washington to take in its dilemma. Mr. Hearst has done a great deal of good for his country and business in advocating this sales tax."

AD MEN DEMAND SALES TAX

CINCINNATI, O., May 23.—(AP.)—Declaring other proposed methods of emergency taxation to be inadequate, unfair and discriminatory, the Association of National Advertisers urges Congress to establish a general sales tax.

Reduction of governmental expenditures and balancing of the federal budget was asserted to be "fundamentally essential" to solution of unemployment and restoration of business confidence.

The organization formally expressed opposition to any efforts to government censorship of advertising, declaring the profession is capable of "cleaning its own house."

Mrs. Bang's mother, Baroness Von Dueben, died late in November. Her daughter was charged with murder on her own confession that she administered narcotics to end her mother's sufferings from an incurable disease.

Her mother did not know she was "drinking death," the daughter testified, although the baroness, she said, had expressed a wish to die.

SEEK TO TAX SCHOOL LAND IN WILKINS

Officials of Township Charge Wilkinsburg Board Bought Tract for Speculation

The question of whether 40 acres of land owned by Wilkinsburg School District in Wilkins Township shall be taxed has been brought before the Board of Assessment and Revision of Taxes of Allegheny County. It was taken to the tax board by Commissioners of Wilkins Township.

Under the law all property owned by a school district is exempt from taxes.

POSITIONS OUTLINED

Commissioners of Wilkins Township say they believe the land was obtained for speculation and therefore should be taxed, but members of the Wilkinsburg School Board declare the property was bought with the anticipation of the section being annexed by the borough.

In stating the case for Wilkins Township, Andrew A. McKeever, treasurer, said:

"Wilkinsburg will never build a school on someone else's property, so we believe the land was bought for speculation and therefore we are entitled to the $810 annual taxes."

For the Wilkinsburg school district, Albert McMurray, vice president, said:

"We by no means bought the land for speculation. We bought it in anticipation of the section being annexed by the borough."

USED FOR GARDENS

The property, which lies on the William Penn highway, was bought two years ago by Wilkinsburg school district from the J. W. Chalfont heirs for $36,000. It is now being used for thrift gardens.

At a special meeting of the Wilkins Township Commissioners, School Board and citizens last Friday, it was voted to bring the question of the taxation before the tax board.

NEEDED CHECK GIVEN COX

When Father Cox opened his mail this morning he found another substantial check from the Sun-Telegraph in payment of home delivery orders that were sent to this newspaper on his account. This check came at a time when the "father of the jobless" needs funds more than ever.

Father Cox

Hundreds of Pittsburghers drove out and inspected the Kittanning Pike location of the new farming community—"Coxtown"—yesterday. They were amazed at the beauty of the spot and in the possibilities it has for community activities of this character. The Sunday Sun-Telegraph carried a picture of the architect's conception of "Coxtown" yesterday. It now looks as though Father Cox would have to accept the Ward Baking Company's offer of 100 additional acres in the same neighborhood for the same purpose.

LAND ASSIGNED

The original "Coxtown" has been almost completely assigned to needy families who want to plant and take care of their own vegetable gardens. Father Cox maintains that this enterprise will give them shelter and food—the two things they need more than any others.

In the meantime, the Father Cox-Sun-Telegraph Home Delivery Drive is showing satisfactory results, the funds from this activity going a long way to feed the lengthy breadline that congregates every day at Old St. Patrick's.

CHANCE TO HELP

If you want to help the "father of the jobless" at a time when he most needs help, at a time when the problem of feeding thousands of hungry men, women and children is more serious than ever, clip the order blank on this page and send it in today. You'll not only get a GOOD newspaper, but you'll have the personal satisfaction of giving your personal aid to a worthy cause. Send the subscription blank to Father Cox if you wish.

If you are living in a city or town where there is no home delivery of the Sun-Telegraph, write to the subscription department, Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh, Pa., for mail subscription rates and state in your letter you are interested in the Father Cox fund.

Edna Best, Husband Arrive in Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, May 23.—(INS.)—Edna Best, actress, who deserted Hollywood and a chance to play opposite Jack Gilbert in order to return to her husband, Herbert Marshall, actor, in New York, because she was lonesome for him, was back in Hollywood today with Marshall, who will launch a career in pictures.

Miss Best hoped to adjust her contract with the studio from which she fled eight months ago.

Actress Drops Suit Against Bridegroom

LOS ANGELES, May 23.—(INS.)—Without explanation, Julie Carter, pretty 19-year-old film actress, today dismissed the $250,000 heart balm suit she filed against Leslie Fenton, actor, a few days after he married Ann Dvorak, also a film player.

DORRANCE TAX CASE ARGUED

HARRISBURG, May 23.—(INS.)—The Supreme Court opened its sitting here today with 27 cases listed for argument during the week.

Eighteen attorneys, including Secretary of the Commonwealth Richard J. Beamish, were admitted to practice before the court.

Today's session in great part is being devoted to argument on the appeal of the commonwealth from the finding of the Delaware County Court in the Dorrance estate case. The commonwealth contends that Dr. John T. Dorrance, head of the Campbell Soup Company, was a resident of Pennsylvania and that his estate should pay an inheritance tax here. More than $17,000,000 in taxes is involved.

The Delaware County Court held that Dr. Dorrance was a resident of New Jersey and his estate was therefore not taxable in Pennsylvania.

In arguing before the lower court, the commonwealth objected to the fact that one of the attorneys for the Dorrance estate was the son of John B. Hannum, the sitting judge. Judge Hannum, however, refused to invite another judge to hear the case.

3 EX-BANKERS GOING TO PEN

TEACHERS SIGN PAY CUT PLEDGE

Pledges to return 10 per cent of their salaries of the Board of Public Education, beginning September 1, were to be signed today by Pittsburgh's 3,540 teachers, school authorities announced. Assurance that the teachers would accept the proposal of the board was given by Miss Esther Smith, president of the Teachers' Association, who announced a vote taken Friday in the city's 177 schools was "almost unanimous" for the cut, which will save the school district $850,000 a year.

The other 1,468 employes of the board will take a 10 per cent cut, effective July 1, as ruled by the directors last week.

The Oil City Derrick full-columned its editorial protest vs. Fannie Brice's interview on one-night stands in a NY paper . . . It took exception to her statement that the leader of the orchestra there was in the way of a patron in the first row and that the annoyed gentleman booted the maestro right into the bass drum . . . It seems to me that Fannie's story was a boost for the Pa. townsman's intelligence . . . There's nothing worse than finally getting a front row seat and then finding the baton waver agitating himself directly in your line of view . . . Call Ham (Palooka) Fisher . . . Also Louis K. Sidney . . . Nicholas Schenck suggests to Charles Moscowitz that . . . give you a special night at Palisades Park . . . I told them you would accept if Jeanne Aubert and Mary White, the Hot Chatmet, could come along . . . If you don't mind my saying so, I think it's all a conspiracy to get you in the ferris wheel and stop it when you reach the top . . . The same thing that happened when the Cheese Club took Harry Hirshfield there a few yrs ago . . . Only they added insult by turning the hose on him while he was prisoner.

Ham Thompson phoned a yarn . . . It seems one of the dinner guests of Warden Lawes last Sun. took home with him the prized gift of an autographed copy of his host's book, "20,000 Yrs. in Sing Sing." A few days later a peddler chiseled his way into the guest's apartment . . . He was selling Oriental rugs and intimated they were stolen or smuggled . . . His first price was $15, then he came down to $10 and finally to five . . . While the lady of the house was trying to shoo him out he spied the book, with its prison-striped jacket, on the table . . . His eyes lighted reminiscently and he exclaimed, "Here, give me this book and $2 and take the rug . . . I tried twice to get you last night at 10 E. 52nd but Charlie Lucas said you had disappeared into a mess of bacardis and Welsh rarebits and that the head waiter too had been looking for you for over ½ hour . . . I think it's unfair of you to make a fool of a head waiter and keep him guessing what glass you are coming out of . . .

BITS OF LIFE

All in a Day

By Mark Hellinger

The Annoyers

YESTERDAY afternoon, when I walked into my office, my secretary looked up at me. I don't know how he happened to be there, but I guess it was because he thought I wasn't coming in.

"You had a lot of calls," he said. "First Buddy Rogers called. Then Paul Gallico. Then Lupe Velez. Then — —"

The phone rang. He picked up the receiver.

"Hello," he cried. "Yes, Mr. Rogers. Just a moment."

He turned to me.

"Rogers is on the phone now," he said. "Now you can find out for yourself what he wants."

There's the ideal secretary for you. I picked up my phone.

"Yes, Buddy," I chirped. "Something on your mind?"

Mr. Rogers' charming voice floated back.

"Nothing on my mind, Mark," he returned. "You called me. What did you want?"

I wrinkled my brow. Being one of the better brow-wrinklers, I presented a very pretty picture.

"Guess there must be some mistake, Buddy," I assured him. "I didn't call you. Must have been a mistake in the message. See you tonight, kid. So long."

I hung up and turned to my alleged secretary.

"I don't get that, Mr. Burridge," I said. "I didn't call —"

The phone rang again. This time it was Paul Gallico, a gentle and charming youth whom I have known for many years. Paul, too, asked me what I had wanted when I phoned him. I gave him the same reply as I had given Mr. Rogers. And I had no sooner hung up than Miss Lupe Velez was on the wire. By this time I was getting wise.

"I know what you're going to tell me, Miss Velez," I said. "You're going to tell me that I phoned and left a message to call me. Well, I didn't. Somebody's kidding both of us. Toodle-oodles."

"Toodle-oodles" being a Mexican word that means "so-long," Miss Velez hung up immediately. And I turned to my secretary.

"Young man," I cried, "the annoyers are at work again."

He nodded wisely. Because he knew exactly what I meant . . .

I haven't been bothered by what I call "the annoyers" for three years. It was just about then that I went through a terrible siege. And I shiver when I think about it.

The annoyers might be almost anyone. They might be people I know, and they might be people I never saw. Probably the latter. But what they can do to you is a shame.

Out of a clear sky, some three years ago, things began to arrive in my office. But the strangest things. I'd arrive in my office in the morning and find a complete course in scientific farming. A letter that accompanied it told me to send $10 immediately, and to forward the balance of $110 within 30 days. I had signed a coupon, it seemed, that would advance me no end.

Then I'd get a complete set of Shakespeare's works, bound in leather, "at the ridiculously low price of $45.95." Once again they thanked me for my order and told me I had signed a coupon. This would be followed by a special coffee percolator that sold at $3.87 or a marvelous "radiumized" brassiere for $6.95 that would do wonders for me in no time.

I don't have to tell you, I suppose, that I had ordered none of these things. Some of the annoyers had simply picked me as a target and were signing my name to any coupon they came upon.

I stood the thing as long as I could, but I reached the limit of my endurance one afternoon when three employes of the postal department lugged a huge threshing machine into my office. It so happened that I had no more use for a threshing machine than I had for a set of hives. So I determined that enough was enough. I notified the postal authorities, turned over the signed set of coupons returned to me by the various companies and printed a note in my column to the effect that the police were on the trail of the annoyers.

Since then I have had no trouble with stuff being sent to me. But, in other ways, the annoyers have continued to work.

There was, for example, the poor dope who sent me a letter or a postal card each day with three harmless words upon it. Just three words in a phrase that meant absolutely nothing to me. Each morning, for almost a year, I found that type of note among my mail. Imagine the nature of a man or woman who will go to all that trouble for almost 365 days.

The thing amused me so much that I finally used the story in my column. I quoted the phrase—as harmless, I can assure you, as three words like "Schultz is dead"—and pointed out the extremes to which people will go to annoy a columnist.

A few days later I had almost a thousand letters from all points of the country. The phrase I had used, it seemed, was the punch line of one of the worst gags ever, told! . . .

Sometimes you almost catch up with your annoyers. There was a woman along Broadway some four years ago, for instance, who kept telling people that she was my secretary. She acted as though she were a bit cracked, they told me, so I made no effort to have her apprehended. Come to think of it, since she craved such a dubious distinction, she must have been a bit cracked.

The thing went along for more than three weeks. Wherever I'd go, they'd tell me my secretary had just left. It got to be a trifle annoying, for, unless I was grossly mistaken, my secretary was not a woman. But, because I didn't want to hurt an obviously unfortunate woman, I shrugged my shoulders and let it go at that.

Just about that time, I went away on a vacation. I returned some two weeks later to find that my "secretary" had done very well in my absence. She had signed checks in my name and had taken bottles of liquor on the cuff in nearly every speakeasy on Broadway! . . .

Taking all in all, however, the best annoyers are the anonymous letter writers. After you've been in the game as long as I have, you merely smile a little contemptuously and toss the poisonous epistles away. Because they're worth no further consideration. But when you're new in the racket—boy, how they can hurt!

But why get serious? After all is said and done, the funniest letter I ever received came from an anonymous letter writer. It was the work of one who was obviously a nut, but it handed me a grand howl at the time.

The writer said he had been sending letters to every columnist in town but had received scant encouragement. The purpose of his letter was to unfold a scheme to reform the world. And the writer insisted that he knew what he was talking about because he was the reincarnation of Abraham Lincoln.

But the letter and the scheme were long and dizzy. I waded through the thing and finally hit the last paragraph.

"Although I am sending this to you," concluded the man who was Abraham Lincoln reincarnated, "I have very little hope that you will publish it. Because, you dirty traitor, I can see by the type of material your column contains that you are the reincarnation of Robert E. Lee!" . . .

Rose Hobart Deserts Films

By HARRISON CARROLL

(Copyright, 1932, King Features Synd., Inc.)

HOLLYWOOD, May 23.

Hollywood is puzzled over the eccentric benavior of Rose Hobart, who turned down a good film offer and has gone back to Broadway, apparently determined to desert the cinema for good.

Miss Hobart, only mildly successful in her screen career to date, was approached by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, while she was playing a local stage engagement opposite Ralph Forbes in "Let Us Divorce." She took a successful test for "Skyscraper Souls" and was offered a good salary and an excellent chance to prove herself.

Her reply was to name what executives considered an excessive salary figure. When pressed for an explanation, she calmly told them that she didn't like film work and that if they wanted her they would have to pay high.

Rose Hobart

Naturally, they didn't, so she packed up and left for Broadway.

But the part Miss Hobart missed has been eagerly sought by a half dozen other actresses. Veree Teasdale, star of the recent New York production, "Experience Unnecessary," is on her way out here now to go to work.

The picture, an important one on M. G. M.'s schedule, will be depicted by Edgar Selwyn.

Meeting the now sylph-like Paul Whiteman in a Hollywood restaurant, Bill Conselman flipped:

"Since you've lost all that weight, Paul, you no longer hide the band that feeds you."

AND SO TO GOSSIP

Luncheon guests at the Patio Roof of the Roosevelt Hotel were thrown into a stage of jitters this week, when Greta Garbo appeared there, without even her customary concealment of dark glasses. The elusive Swede wore a dark blue polo coat with a close-fitting hat of the same shade. What she ate is not recorded for history. . . . Gilda Gray, somewhat of a jitter-giver herself, is seeing the sights of Hollywood. . . . They would have you believe that Jimmy Durante is plenty burned over a well-planned rib that Wall Mahoney will replace him in a coming picture. . . . Mahoney, whose dance on the xyllophone panics them at the Chinese, is the pet of the town. . . . Judith Vosselli, the ex-screen vamp, is now in New York. Rumor has it she still is plenty burned over the Reno divorse of her socially prominent husband.

They'll go into hysterics at United Artists when you mention the latest exploit of Ga-Ga, the spider monkey Douglas Fairbanks uses in his new South Seas picture. Ga-Ga is forever escaping from custody. Pulling a Houdini the other afternoon, he slipped his leash and scrammed. A moment later he shinnied up the side of the Administration Building and popped into the window of an office where Samuel Goldwyn was having a story conference. Came a gasp from the onlookers. Then, in another moment, Goldwyn and an assistant appeared, firmly escorting the monkey out of the building. You could hear the laugh for half a block.

HARRIS BAND HIT

Newest hit among the film people is Phil Harris, whose band has opened in Cocoanut Grove. The opening night drew a record crowd. Glimpsed among the celebrities: Jack Dempsey dancing with Lina Basquette, William Le Baron with Kitty Kelly, Billie Dove dancing with Gilbert Roland, Joan Marsh and Jerry Horwin, W. S. Van Dyke, Bob Leonard entertaining a large party. Rivaling the fake-waiter gag of Vincent Barnett was Frank Le Buse. When he threatened to hit Dempsey, the crowd roared.

Though Warren William is loaned to M. G. M. for "Skyscraper Souls," he is under orders to report back at the home studio June 4 to play the masculine lead in "Three On a Match."

Since his hit in "The Mouthpiece," William's stock has taken a strong rise in Hollywood.

Glassport Man Dies, Crushed by Casting

Pittsburgh Stars Featured In Broadcasts Today On WCAE and KDKA

Seven outstanding radio artists of Western Pennsylvania are heard in broadcasts on WCAE and KDKA today.

Three Paul Whiteman finalists join to present a 15-minute program over a National Broadcasting Company network from the KDKA studios tonight at 10:15. They are Freda Lazier, soprano, of East End; Robert Caesar, tenor, of New Kensington, and Jimmie Di Palma, student at the Canonsburg Junior High School.

Kay Donna

Kay Donna, the blonde little songstress who won her first recognition in Pittsburgh as Kay Cronich, is scheduled to present another of her programs of songs of the past, "Do You Remember?" over an NBC network including WCAE tonight at 10:30 from the studios of WTAM, Cleveland.

Back in Pittsburgh after his theatrical tours, Pat Hales, of Mt. Oliver, well-known for his song interpretations and ukulele arrangements, acts as master of ceremonies on WCAE's early evening dance program with Betty Cruikshank, contralto, tonight at 8. Tomorrow night he'll be heard with the harmonizing Johnson sisters.

Program Pointers

Agnes Davis, soprano, is featured with Erno Rapee's Orchestra on WCAE tonight at 9:30 during the Parade of States program, when tribute is paid to Colorado, the centennial state, in a musical half-hour redolent of Rocky Mountain tradition and atmosphere. A special orchestral number, "The Rocky Mountains at Night, Daybreak and Sun-up" and a medley of songs made famous by Paul Whiteman, a native of Colorado, are included on the program. . . . Morton Downey presents the first of those all-request programs he promised tonight at 7:45 on WJAS.

Miss Davis

Lloyd Huntley and his Isle O' Blues Orchestra presents two half-hour programs of dance music on WWSW tonight—at 8:30 and again at 11.

Popular selections from the musical show "My Maryland" are featured on the Musical Vignettes program from KQV tonight at 10 with Sara Manno, soprano, and Russell Maloney, tenor, as the soloists. William Silk, violinist; Charles Jones, organist, and a male chorus also are heard.

A new daily feature, the Musical Clock, was introduced on KDKA this morning from 7 to 8. The program is sponsored by Donahoe's.

Lawrence Tibbett presents a program of selections from "The Vagabond King," "New Moon" and "Tannhauser" over WCAE tonight 8:30.

Extraordinary interpretations of two groups of Hungarian melodies are presented by the Dance Gypsies, directed by Harry Horlick, on WCAE tonight at 9.

L. G. McIntire, secretary of the Beaver Falls Chamber of Commerce, is guest speaker during the Westinghouse Parade on KDKA at 6:15.

Impersonating Rudy Vallee, Irving Kaufman sings "Your Time is My Time" at 8 on WJAS.

Fan Fare

In this corner we have H. Ward Wilson, whose impersonations of stars of the radio and theatrical worlds are heard every Wednesday and Friday on KDKA. He started his career as an engineer. . . . Incidentally, the program featuring Mr. Wilson is given a new night spot 45 minutes later, beginning June 8, over a larger W.J.Z. network. . . . That coffee company sponsoring Dave Rubinoff starts a new series of two-a-week programs on WJAS June 2. Georgie Prince, former musical comedy and vaudeville star, and Benny Kreuger's Orchestra will be featured.

H. Ward Wilson

The Sisters of the Skillet open an engagement at the Academy of Music in New York Friday.

In addition to singing during her current vaudeville engagements, Alice Joy has been acting as mistress of ceremonies for the stage shows at various theaters. . . . Charlie Lyon, NBC announcer, is talking about buying a plane and taking flying lessons.

When television comes into its own, the friendly smiles of Ford Miller and the Lawson sisters and the golden hair of Charlotte Shallenberger will be ideal, according to recent tests.

WWSW celebrates its first anniversary at the end of this month.

Leading orchestral conductors throughout the country have announced plans to include in their future concerts various of the winning symphonic works in the NBC Orchestral Awards contest . . . Speaking in this vein, Philip James, of WOR, who won the first award, makes an interesting observation . . . He says that jazz and syncopation have influenced contemporary American composers' works to a marked degree, and cites the compositions of John Alden Carpenter, Percy Grainger, Harold Morris, Louis Gruenberg and Aaron Copeland in proof of his contention.

Jacques D'Avrey's favorite sport is horseback riding . . . He maintains that he'd go to Montana to live if NBC would be so gracious as to build a special studio on the ranch for him.

Vincent Lopez refused an insurance salesman who wanted to insure his fingers.

Buddy Rogers broke 80 the other day playing golf and sent plenty of telegrams to his relatives in Kansas telling them about it—something he didn't do when he made such a big hit on the stage and radio.

PARISIAN DESIGNERS FAVOR PRINTED SILKS FOR COATS

Sketched in Paris

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, May 19. — The printed silk coat, launched early in 1932 as a Paris summer fashion, is already a success. Continental women are already ordering it in preparation for trips to Southern resorts, and for town wear as well.

* * *

THE CURRENT Paris version of the printed silk coat does a double duty—it may be worn with plain-colored dresses, or it may be part of an ensemble which includes a printed dress.

IT IS AT its best in dark colors, with the flowers marked in lighter tones. It is usually of fairly simple cut and is fastened with ties at the waist, with a scarf, or left entirely without fastening, to be held in place or worn hanging straight.

* * *

PARIS FASHION houses suggest this as the most satisfactory type of summer wrap. Because of its printed pattern, it does not quickly show the wrinkles of warm-weather wearing, and it can completely cover a more formal dress when needed for the street.

LUCILE PARAY cleverly combines the printed coat with a printed dress without insisting too obviously on the ensemble idea. She makes both dress and coat of the same printed pattern, but chooses the coat in in black with chartreuse green flowers, widely spaced, leaving the reverse combination of black flowers on a light background, for the dress.

* * *

As the sketch shows, the coat is made on slightly fitted lines, with a scarf collar which ties over revers of the dress fabric. The sleeves are draped and full, but held in form by rows of stitching along the forearm. The dress is of the type which hangs straight until the scarf belt, which ties at the side, pulls it into place at the waistline. The loose scarf collar is pulled through a wide slash at the left-front just below the neckline.

CO-EDS OPPOSE 'DEPRESSION DIVORCES'

Separation During Period of Financial Stress Finds No Favor With Pitt Girls

The "depression divorce," a new form of marital schism, now being advocated by women political leaders in Washington, was bitterly opposed by University of Pittsburgh co-eds today.

Although the [illegible] divorce plan is merely a [illegible] to last for the period of the financial emergency, co-eds said they would not consider it under any circumstances. Anne Kovach, Mortar Board member, said:

"When you get married you take a man for better or worse, and the only thing to do even if a depression comes along, is to stick it out."

Dorothy Gelasius, Kappa Kappa Gamma member, opposed the new divorce plan on the grounds that it has too many loopholes. She said:

"You wouldn't catch me favoring such a plan. It has too many loopholes. It gives a man a chance to leave his wife on the pretense that he is not making enough money to keep a wife. Once granted, it would lead to drifting."

RAILROAD CARS TO BE COOLED

Passengers on [illegible] Railroad sleeping and dining cars this summer are to be cool according to announcement today that all sleeping cars will be cooled by at least 10 degrees before leaving the terminals and that 38 dining cars will be equipped with ice water cooling systems.

Refrigerating equipment has been ordered installed in the principal terminals and work of equipping the dining cars is under way according to the announcement.

From ice containers under the dining cars, ice water will be pumped through coils in the ceiling where blowers will force purified air over the radiators and into the dining rooms.

The railroad also is working on mechanical refrigeration units, the announcement said.

HAWLEY LOSES IN PRIMARY

PORTLAND, May 23.—(AP.)—Defeat of Willis C. Hawley, veteran Republican representative in Congress seeking renomination in Oregon's primary Friday, was apparent today as returns from all but a few scattering precincts showed James W. Mott, corporation commissioner, had outrun him by 700 votes. Hawley has represented Oregon 20 years.

Mott will be opposed in the November election by Harvey Starkweather, who apparently bested William Delzell for the Democratic nomination.

Franklin D. Roosevelt won Oregon's 10 Democratic national convention votes. The 13 votes in the Republican national convention went to Joseph Irwin France, ex-Senator from Maryland.

With 170 small precincts missing, Walter Gleason, prohibition repeal candidate, was leading Elton Watkins, a dry, by 175 votes for the Democratic senatorial nomination. The winner will meet Senator Frederick Steiwer, Republican, in the November election.

HOOVER OPPOSES ALL BOND ISSUES FOR PUBLIC WORKS

PRESIDENT FOR FINANCE BODY LOANS ONLY

Statement by Executive Reveals Stand Against Garner, La Follette Plans

they would sustain and expand employment, but also in view of further contraction of credit to increase its authority to expand the issue of its own securities up to $3,000,000,000 for the purpose of organizing aid to "income producing" works throughout the nation both of public and private character.

Assails Usefulness

1. The vice in that segment of the proposals made by your society and others for further expansion of "public works" is that they include public works of remote usefulness; they impose unbearable burdens upon the taxpayer; they unbalance the budget and demoralize government credit. A larger and far more effective relief to unemployment at this stage can be secured by increased aid to "income-producing" works. I wish to emphasize this distinction between what for purposes of this discussion we may term "income-producing works" (also referred to as "self-liquidating works") on the one hand and non-product "public works" on the other.

By "income-producing works" I mean such projects of states, counties and subdivisions as waterworks, toll bridges, toll tunnels, dock and any other such activities which charge for their service and whose earning capacity provides a return upon the investment.

With the return of normal times, the bonds of such official bodies based upon such projects can be disposed of to the investing public and thus make the intervention of the Reconstruction Corporation purely an emergency activity.

I include in this class aid to established industry where it would sustain and increase employment with the safeguard that loans for these purposes should be made on sound security and the proprietors of such industries should provide a portion of the capital.

Nonproductive "public works" in the sense of the term here used include public buildings, highways, streets, river and harbor improvement, military and navy construction, etc., which bring no direct income and comparatively little relief to unemployment.

Cites Pennsy Loan

2—I can perhaps make this distinction clear by citing the example of the recent action of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation in the matter of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company on one hand and the recent bill passed by the House of Representatives for increased road building on the other.

The railroad company applied to the Reconstruction Corporation for a loan of $55,000,000 to help finance a fund of over $68,000,000 needed to electrify certain of its lines. By so doing it would employ directly and indirectly for one year more than 28,000 men distributed over 20 different states.

An arrangement was concluded by which the Reconstruction Corporation undertook to stand behind the plan to the extent of $27,000,000, the railway company finding the balance. This $27,000,000 is to be loaned on sound securities and will be returned, capital and interest, to the corporation. The Reconstruction Corporation is acting as agent to make available otherwise timid capital for the Pennsylvania Railroad in providing employment. There is no charge upon the taxpayer.

Tax Burden Seen

On the other hand, the proposal of the House of Representatives is to spend $132,000,000 for subsidies to the states for construction of highways. This would be a direct charge on the taxpayer. The total number of men to be directly employed is estimated at 35,000 and indirectly 20,000 more.

In other words, by this action we would give employment to only 55,000 men at the expense by the government of $132,000,000, which will never be recovered. In the one instance we recover the money advanced through the Reconstruction Corporation; we issue no government bonds; we have no charge on the taxpayer. In the other instance we have not only a direct cost to the taxpayer, but also a continuing maintenance charge, and furthermore, the highways in many sections have now been expanded beyond immediate public need.

Relation to Budget

3. These proposals of huge expansion of "public works" have a vital relation to balancing the federal budget and to the stabilizing of national credit. The financing of "income-producing works" by the Reconstruction Corporation is an investment operation; requires no congressional appropriation, does not unbalance the budget, is not a drain upon the Treasury, does not involve the direct issue of government bonds, does not involve added burdens upon the taxpayer either now or in the future. It is an emergency operation which will liquidate itself with the return of the investor to the money markets.

The proposal to build nonproductive "public works" of the category I have described necessitates making increased appropriations by the Congress. These appropriations must be financed by immediate increased taxation or by the issuance of government bonds. Whatever the method employed, they are inescapably a burden upon the taxpayer.

If such a course is adopted beyond the amounts already provided in the budget now before Congress for the next fiscal year, it will upset all possibility of balancing the budget; it will destroy confidence in government securities and make for the instability of the government which in result will deprive more people of employment than will be gained.

Programs Enlarged

4. I have for many years advocated the speeding up of public works in times of depression as an aid to business and unemployment. That has been done upon a huge scale and is proceeding at as great a pace as fiscal stability will warrant.

All branches of government—federal, state and municipal—have greatly expanded their "public works" and have now reached a stage where they have anticipated the need for many such works for a long time to come. Therefore, the new projects which might be undertaken are of even more remote usefulness.

From January, 1930, to July 1, 1932, the federal government will have expended $1,500,000,000 on public works. The budget for the next fiscal year carries a further $575,000,000 of such expenditures (compared with about $250,000,000 normal) and includes all the items I have felt are justified by sound engineering and sound finance.

Thus by the end of next year the federal government will have expended over $2,000,000,000 on public works, which represents an increase over normal of perhaps $1,200,000,000. Thus we have largely anticipated the future and have rendered further expansion beyond our present program of very remote usefulness and certainly not justified for some time to come, even were there no fiscal difficulties. They represent building of a community beyond its necessities. We cannot thus squander ourselves into prosperity.

Examines Projects

5—A still further and overriding reason for not undertaking such programs of further expansion of federal "public works" is evident if we examine the individual projects which might be undertaken from an engineering and economic point of view. The federal "public works" now authorized by law cover works which it was intended to construct over a long term of years and embrace several projects which were not of immediate public usefulness.

In any event, the total of such projects still incomplete on the 1st of July will amount to perhaps $1,300,000,000. If we deduct from this at once the budgeted program for the next fiscal year—$575,000,000—we leave roughly $725,000,000 of such authorized works which would be open for action.

If we examine the projects in detail, we find great deductions must be made from this sum. Construction of many projects physically requires years for completion, such as naval vessels, buildings, canalization of rivers, etc., and therefore as an engineering necessity this sum could only be expended over four or five years.

Legal Details First

A portion of the projects not already started will require legal and technical preparation, and therefore could not be brought to the point of employment of labor during the next year; a portion of these authorized projects are outside continental United States and do not contribute to the solution of our problem; a portion are in localities where there is little unemployment; a portion are in the District of Columbia, where we already have a large increase in program for the next fiscal year and where no additional work could be justified. A portion are of remote utility and are not justified, such as extension of agricultural acreage at the present time.

Deducting all these cases from the actual list of authorized federal public works, it will be found that there is less than $100,000,000 (and this is doubtful) which could be expended during the next fiscal year beyond the program in the budget. That means the employment of say less than 40,000 men. Thus the whole of these grandiose contentions of possible expansion of federal (public works) fall absolutely to the ground for these reasons if there were no other.

If it is contemplated that we legislate more authorizations of new and unconsidered projects by Congress we shall find ourselves confronted by a log-rolling process which will include dredging of mud creeks, building of unwarranted postoffices, unprofitable irrigation projects, duplicate highways and a score of other unjustifiable activities.

6. There is still another phase of this matter to which I would like to call attention. Employment in "public works" is largely transitory. It does not have a follow-up of continued employment as is the case with "income-producing works." But of even more importance than this, the program I have proposed gives people employment in all parts of the country in their normal jobs under normal conditions in their normal place of abode, tends to reestablish normal processes in business and industry and will do so on a much larger scale than the projects proposed in the so-called "public works" program.

Credit Indespensible

7—To sum up. It is generally agreed that the balancing of the federal budget and unimpaired national credit is indispensible to the restoration of confidence and to the very start of economic recovery. The administration and Congress have pledged themselves to this end. A "public works" program such as is suggested by your committee and by others, through the issuance of federal bonds creates at once an enormous further deficit.

What is needed is the return of confidence and a capital market through which credit will flow in the thousand rills with its result of employment and increased prices. That confidence will be only destroyed by action in these directions. These channels will continue clogged by fears if we continue attempts to issue large amounts of government bonds of nonproductive work.

Such a program as these huge federal loans for "public works" is a fearful price to pay in putting a few thousand men temporarily at work and dismissing many more thousands of others from their present employment. There is vivid proof of this since these proposals of public works financed by government bonds were seriously advanced a few days ago.

Raps 'Extra Budget'

Since then United States government bonds have shown marked weakness on the mere threat. And it is followed at once by a curtailment of the ability of states, municipalities and industry to issue bonds and thus a curtailment of activities which translate themselves into decreased employment.

It will serve no good purpose and will fool no one to try to cover appearances by resorting to a so-called "extraordinary budget." That device is well known. It brought the governments of certain foreign countries to the brink of financial disaster. It means a breach of faith to holders of all government securities, an unsound financial program and a severe blow to returning confidence and further contraction of economic activities in the country.

What you want and what I want is to restore normal employment. I am confident that if the program I have proposed to the Congress is expeditiously completed and we have the cooperation of the whole community, we will attain the objective for which we have been searching so long.

Seniors at Pitt Give Gandhi World Title

MISS ADELAIDE HUNTER, DORMONT . . PITT'S MOST POPULAR

Mellon, Judge Soffel Named Outstanding Figures of City.

Mahatma Gandhi was picked as the world's outstanding figure in a poll, made public today, of 100 campus leaders in the graduating class at the University of Pittsburgh.

Col. Charles A. Lindbergh was chosen as the outstanding man in the United States by a big majority.

Next to Lindbergh, the seniors think the most outstanding national figure is Al Capone. Stalin and Mussolini gave Gandhi a close race for world honors.

Andrew W. Mellon and Judge Sara Soffel were selected as the outstanding man and woman of Pittsburgh.

The seniors then picked members from their own group for honorary and complimentary titles.

GIRL GETS TWO TITLES

Adelaide Hunter was the only one to have two titles bestowed upon her. She was picked as most popular girl in the senior class, as well as the best dancer.

Jack Sterling, who won the university award for this year, was picked as most popular man in his class. The man who has done most for the school was declared to be Robert C. Machesney, ex-editor of the Pitt Weekly.

Jim MacMurdo, who was picked by several coaches as All-American tackle, won the title of best athlete. Louise Linn was chosen as the girl who has done most for the university.

Dr. Ralph E. Turner, of the history department, was voted the most popular faculty member.

LIST COST OF 'DATES'

In a questionnaire the seniors pictured themselves as earning from $2,000 to $6,000 annually by 1942. Earnings immediately after graduation were seen as $1,600 a year. Replies to this questionnaire "Wish I knew" and "Dad works."

The cost of the average "date" in Pittsburgh was set at $3.50. Several of the ballots were marked $,000, while others ran as high as $8.

The girls picked 24 and the men 29 as the ideal age to marry.

LAWRENCEVILLE BANK OPENING ABANDONED

State Officials Failed to Aid Reorganization, Dr. Lewin Charges; Notifies Gordon

Abandonment of plans to reopen the Pennsylvania Bank and Trust Company, Penn avenue and Thirty-fourth street, was announced last night by Dr. A. L. Lewin, chairman of the banking committee of the Arsenal Board of Trade, who in a statement charged State Banking Department had refused to co-operate in reorganization plans.

For more than two months Dr. Lewin and Thomas McCaffrey, Jr., chairman of the reorganization campaign, have worked toward reopening of the bank. Both repeatedly declared liquidation would cause heavy loss to depositors, while successful reorganization would have been profitable through the conservation of assets. Dr. Lewin said:

PARLEYS FRUITLESS

"We have not received a single constructive suggestion from the State Banking Department. Every conference with representatives of that department was of a discouraging, destructive nature. The department's attitude, as expressed to us verbally and in writing, is that it is not charged with the opening of banks. Failing to get any help from that quarter, we are unable to proceed."

A detailed report will be made to depositors and stockholders at a meeting to be held soon, he announced.

MESSAGE TO GORDON

In a telegram to Dr. William D. Gordon, state secretary of banking, at Harrisburg, last night, Dr. Lewin said:

"After two months of faithful labor among our friends, citizens, depositors and stockholders—all interested in the reopening of the Pennsylvania Bank and Trust Company—and meeting with an unprecedented measure of success, we find it impossible to satisfy the Department of Banking. We have done well, especially under an unheard-of depression, but cannot see any advantage to the depositors by further delay in liquidation. A mass meeting will be held in the near future and details will be laid before the people."

CAPITAL REQUIRED

One condition imposed by the banking department for reopening of the bank was that $600,000 new capital be raised. A large amount was subscribed, shares being sold at $80.

A 10 per cent distribution to depositors, ordered by Dr. Gordon, was begun April 7. This amounted to $256,657, and was paid to 7,600 accounts, it was said. At the time the order was made Dr. Gordon announced the distribution would have no effect on the proposed reorganization.

SCARLET FEVER NO BAR TO MUSIC!

EDWARD I. CLARK INSTRUCTING THE QUARANTINED SCHMALZRIED FAMILY ON HARMONICAS

Instructor Clark at the quarantined Schmalzried home, 1201 Peermont avenue, Dormont, teaching the harmonica to the youngsters. Miss Margie, 8, must stay inside her room because she's quarantined with a scarlet fever case. This is a Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph picture.

7 QUARANTINED, GIVE CONCERTS

Not even a scarlet fever quarantine could dampen the enthusiasm of the Schmalzried children of 1201 Peermont avenue, Dormont who have been making good use of their enforced vacation from school by practicing daily on their harmonicas.

Margie, 8, has been quarantined in her home for three weeks. Her sisters and brothers also are kept home during the quarantine.

Edward I. Clark, harmonica teacher, and instructor for the Bureau of Recreation, Pittsburgh playgrounds, is a neighbor of the Schmalzried family, teaching seven of the nine children.

So every day, Mr. Clark and the harmonica players ascend the porch roof and practice "Hail, Hail, the Gang's All Here," and other songs. Margie, of course, does her playing in her room.

The players besides Margie, are Bernice 5, Charles 7, Mary 10, Gertrude 11, George 13, and William 14. The other two are Thomas 3, and Robert, nine months. Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Schmalzried are thinking about taking up harmonica playing.

Smoke Bomb Routs Co-Eds In Pajamas

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., May 23.—(AP.)—Some 40 co-eds of the Woman's Hall annex at West Virginia University held a pajama parade yesterday morning. But it wasn't altogether their fault.

Police are trying to locate those to blame.

Smoke filled the hall, firemen hastened to the scene, girls fled to the street, while male students cheered lustily.

The smoke came from a smoke bomb, police later found.

N. Y. Bank Overseer Loses Point in Trial

NEW YORK, May 23.—(AP.)—A motion to dismiss the indictment for neglect of duty against State Supt. of Banks Joseph A. Broderick was denied as the case went into its eighth week today.

Both sides rested last week, and as soon as the dismissal motion was denied the case was ready for summations of opposing counsel. Broderick is charged with neglect in not closing the Bank of United States sooner than he did.

CIRCUS SHOWING ON NORTH SIDE

They spread the big top on the North Side today for the first circus of the season—and nowhere was the news received more eagerly than in the Industrial Home for Crippled Children in Dennistion avenue.

For tomorrow morning the clowns, the acrobats, the tumblers and the clown band will take possession of the Dennistion avenue lawn and put on an hour's show that should surpass the circus slogan—"the greatest show on earth." This special show has been arranged through the Sun-Telegraph. A bus will carry 25 children from the Salvation Army Day Nursery at 25 Fernando street to the special performance at the Dennistion avenue institution.

It was the Sells-Floto show that moved into Exposition Park for two performances today, while hundreds of Pittsburghers looked on curiously.

Tomorrow and Wednesday the circus will be at Fifth and Penn avenues, Point Breeze, for four performances.

Fireman Injured When Ladder Breaks

Hoseman John McGuire, of No. 10 Engine Company, injured last night when the rung on a ladder broke while he was helping fight a fire in an abandoned coal tipple on a Pennsylvania Railroad siding near South Ninth street, was reported in good condition today in Mercy Hospital. Firemen said $10 damage was done by the fire.

BUILDERS ALSO URGE PLAN TO AVOID DOLE

More Petitions Supporting Hearst $5,000,000,000 Plan Sent Congressmen

Helplessness of more than 1,000,000 unemployed workers in the state today brought support of the Pennsylvania Department, Veterans of Foreign Wars, through State Commander Daniel O'Donnell, of Phoenixville, to the proposed $5,000,000,000 federal prosperity loan to provide employment on public works.

The Builders' Exchange of Pittsburgh likewise urged action by Congress, foreseeing in the federal assistance the elimination of direct charity, or the dole.

Commander O'Donnell's support followed like action last week by the national commander, Harold D. DeCoe, at Sacramento, Cal., and the Allegheny County V. F. W., through Commander Al Yahres. Commander O'Donnell declared in a telephone communication from his home:

"We are following the action of our national commander. There is urgent need for $5,000,000,000 loan."

The petition being sent Pennsylvania Senator and Congressmen by the builders points out that employment that can be created for the more than 190,000 idle wage earners in Allegheny County.

PUBLIC WORK URGED

Letters accompanying the petitions from C. A. Powell, president of the exchange, and Robert K. Cochrane, Jr., executive secretary, cite:

"This is the one way to keep away from the dole—this prosperity loan. The Builders' Exchange is for a thoughtful and honestly carried out public works program."

Action was scheduled today by the Allegheny County American Legion executive committee on petitioning Congress for ppassage of a relief measure. Members of the Electrical Contractors' Association of Pittsburgh, likewise, were to act on a resolution at their meeting tonight.

SUFFERING TO GROW

That 55,000 families in Allegheny County will be dependent upon charity next winter if substantial relief is not forthcoming, Mrs. T. M. Stahlman, president of the Congress of Women's Clubs, in a radio appeal over Station WCAE today declared:

"The federal government must come to our assistance. The construction of public works will give employment to millions of men and women. Pittsburgh will be benefited, even if none of the public works should be constructed in this vicinity, because Pittsburgh mills undoubtedly would be called upon to furnish much of the iron and steel, aluminum, glass, electrical equipment, building supplies and other materials. The nation's foremost economists promise that the public works plan will not fail."

Ex-Pugilist Fined, 2 Held in Shooting

Johnny Kirk, former pugilist, was fined $50 and two others were held for court yesterday by Magistrate J. J. Sweeney in connection with the shooting of Walter Funderick, 40, of Montgomery, W. Va., in an alleged speakeasy police said Kirk conducted in Cabo way.

Richard Thompson, 30, of Van Braam street, and Charles Stevens, 35, of 223 Carson street, were identified by Funderick as the two who shot him during an attempted holdup of the place, police said.

Expert Moves Stray Bees From Liberty Bridge

Thousands of bees which for two days had clung to the railing of the Liberty Bridge were housed today in a temporary hive at the home of Walter H. Klinzing, bee expert, of 7 Younger street, Banksville.

Klinzing, summoned by County Motorcycle Patrolman Jack Eckard, arrived attired in a wire head screen and heavy gauntlets, to remove the swarm from the bridge.

Although many thousands of persons passed the swarm and stopped to watch, no one was stung.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

SANTA MONICA, Cal.

The other day I wrote a little "gag" about the main thing that handicapped repeal of prohibition was the wrong people are for it. I still claim its true. Prohibition is not a party issue. It's not a wet and dry issue. You will find it is country against city. Your city's wet and the country is against it more because it's the city dictating to them. And if you don't think its that way, you wait till you count the votes. Country folks know the whole thing won't work, but they are not going to let "town folks" tell 'em so. That's why I say the wrong people are for it, to get it through.

Yours, Will.

SHRINE CHIEF URGES RETURN OF BEER

Brew Legalization Would Restore Prosperity, Says Houston Arriving Here

"Give the people back their beer," was the plea made today by Imperial Potentate Thomas J. Houston, of the Shrine, as he arrived in Pittsburgh from Chicago to be the guest of Karl Rex Hammers, illustrious potentate of Syria Shrine of Pittsburgh. Houston said:

"If Congress would do something right away and adjourn after giving the people beer, it would have the greatest pyschological effect on the nation, restoring business prosperity. Immediately 2,000,000 men would be put to work, and a $5 tax on every barrel of beer manufactured would bring in a revenue of $500,000,000, more than enough to balance the budget."

Houston, who has visited 118 cities during the year, is convinced that "things are looking brighter."

He was to be accompanied by a party of important members of the Shrine to Washington, Pa., tonight as guests of Caravan No. 2.

The imperial potentate will be the guest of honor at a ceremonial in Syria Mosque tomorrow, preceded by a Shrine luncheon.

TEMPLARS TOLD TO FIGHT CRIME

HARRISBURG, May 23.—(AP)—Knights Templar of the Grand Commandery of Pennsylvania were challenged to a crusade against lawlessness as they opened their seventy-ninth annual conclave here yesterday.

Holding up the Lindbergh baby as a victim of crime brought about "through our sheer listlessness," the Rev. Dr. John N. LeVan, pastor of Salem Reformed Church and grand prelate of the state order, exhorted his fellow knights to "set into motion forces to crusade throughout our land, sweeping out every gangster."

A crowd was turned away from the doors of the church where the service, marking the opening of a four-day convention of the Knights Templar, was held with knights attending in full regalia.

Most Eminent Sir Perry W. Weidner, of Los Angeles, grand master of the grand encampment of the national organization, also referring to the Lindbergh case, said: "The supreme need of America today is not more legislation, not more programming, but more religion."

A reception and tea at the Hershey Park Golf Club, near here, in honor of Grand Master Weidner, preceded the church service.

Farries Rumpio, of Tarentum, told county detectives that he was left stranded on the Saxonburg road after he was robbed of his machine and $100 worth of jewelry by a hitch-hiker he picked up.

3 Youths Arrested In Auto Theft Probe

Found sitting in a stolen automobile, Joseph Gallo, 18, Henry Jacobs, 18, and Leonard Calloway, 19, all of Plainfield, N. J., were being held by Wilkinsburg police for investigation today. Police said they were sitting in a machine stolen from Benjamin Steele, of Lancaster, Pa. A fourth man, described by the youths as an autoist who gave them a lift, was being sought.

Group Sought Here As Fake Collectors

A group of men said to have represented themselves as collectors for the Blind Institute of Chicago, were being sought today by police after they were said to have defrauded almost 100 South Hills wives of money. Complaint against the men was made by Mrs. C. E. Collins, of 29 Stewart avenue, Carrick.

ONE PRISONER IN EVERY 2,400

WASHINGTON, May 23.—(INS)—One person of every 2,400 in the United States is a federal prisoner, either on probation, parole or in confinement.

In a review of the penal system today, Sanford Bates, superintendent of federal prisoners, disclosed that there are 49,900 federal prisoners. A total of 20,200 are on probation, 3,200 on parole, 13,000 in county jails or local institutions and 13,500 in federal penitentiaries, reformatories and camps.

Federal prisoners have increased at an alarming rate since the enactment of prohibition, narcotic and automobile theft acts. Records of the Justice Department show no appreciable increase in convictions for other offenses.

Well over half the prisoners confined on federal convictions were sentenced for violations of the prohibition, auto theft and Harrison narcotic acts. For these offenses 9,368 were in confinement June 30, 1931, out of a total of 13,658 federal prisoners.

For violation of the prohibition law 5,124 were in prison, 2,461 for narcotic violations, and 1,783 for violation of the Dyer auto theft act.

Will Gossip Follow If Single Girl Adopts Babies?

Here's a new one for the scrapbook.

Should a bachelor girl adopt two babies?

"But why doesn't she marry and have some babies of her own?" most folks will wonder.

For the good and perhaps sufficient reason that she doesn't want to be a missus.

Men are no treat to Mary, but she'd like a home and a family, and she can guarantee to meet the bills as well as any man. She's an up and coming young woman with a good job, a pretty home and plenty of future. Also, she adores children. No "regular" mamma could or would give two little tads a better deal. Yet her friends say she's crazy to even think of a plan.

"What an idea!" they snort. "You're crazy. In the first place if you do it there'll be awful gossip. Everybody will be bound to think they're your own, and that will be just the beginning of the trouble."

So what's your advice to Mary?

GETTING ALONG WELL

Should she listen to the croakers or should she go ahead? Here's her story:

"Dear Miss Martin—

"Mine is a problem that is unique, I think, and for that reason it seems impossible for me to find a solution alone. I need the aid of someone like you, who can, I am sure, understand my point of view, and consider it more fairly than my friends.

"You see, I am still a young woman—28, to be exact—and unmarried. I shall take the position of assistant librarian in a small city in the South, as soon as I receive my degree in June. I have made that town my home for the last five years, and I know practically everyone there. My position offers a very good salary, and so I have managed to buy a lovely home and a small car. I am telling you this to show you that I am in a good position, and that I am capable of doing what I plan to do. It is this:

WARNED OF SCANDAL

"I want to adopt two adorable children, a boy 2 years old and a tiny girl 6 months old. Both are at present in an orphanage not far from my home town. I would love them with all my heart. I could give them every advantage, and besides, I need them, for in spite of my job and my many friends, at times I am desperately lonely.

"But people I have spoken to object strongly to such a course. The main reason seems to be that 'there is bound to be a scandal.' Of course, I realize the possibility of such scandal in that town. They say I am in a rather prominent position in the community, for it is quite possible that I shall have complete charge of the library in a few years, and that any gossip would ruin my prospects and happiness, as well as the happiness of the children.

"Naturally, I would want to have these children regard me as their mother. Many of my friends have suggested marriage as the more natural way to satisfy my desire for child love, but marriage is not the question. I am contented without a husband, and, after all, it's the children that I want.

"This rather sounds as if I were a case of a psychoanalysis, but I assure you I am a perfectly normal person, with a desire to do something helpful for these unfortunate children, as well as to find happiness myself.

"Do you think I ought to go ahead with my plan, or should I allow these petty objections to stop me? Whatever the decision should be, I want it to be made soon. I want my remaining youth to aid me in understanding the children I may adopt.

"Please, won't you consider this seriously? It means a great deal to me. "MARY."

MANY PROBLEMS

Well, personally, Mary, my advice would be to get married and have your own children. Even if you don't think now that you want to marry, the chances are that some day you will, and then what's going to happen? You'll find yourself all tied up with a ready-made family—and that may not work out so well.

If, on the other hand, you're dead set against marriage, why should you try to "have your cake and eat it too" by pretending to these children that you are their real mother? Seems to me that you are setting up as many problems as your friends.

Either be conventional and safeguard your children's good name by a conventional marriage and a regular father, or else be bravely, honestly unconventional, and tell the children you adopt that you are not their mother, and love them as much as if you were.

Personally, I can see no other course save these two. However, we'll put the question up to the rest of the gang, and see what they think.

Come on, stranger! Let's have your vote on this.

Shall Mary go in for orphans, or shan't she? And if she does, will mean gossip spoil the picture?

Business Work Has Been Excellent Training for Women, Says Fay King

SHE LEARNS TO TALK A GREAT DEAL WITHOUT REVEALING ANY CONFIDENCE
SHE LEARNS TO BE PROMPT
SHE LEARNS TO CONTROL HER VARYING MOODS AND BE PLEASANT AND EVEN TEMPERED ABOUT HER WORK.
FAY KING

By FAY KING

Going to business has been excellent training for women.

They do not lose charm, but gain discipline.

First they learn the value of time and to be prompt.

One has only to notice how attractive business girls look on their way to work in the morning to see that they can groom themselves with care and taste in little time.

At the office they learn control of temperament. One never hears of hysteria in moments of rush or confusion.

They learn to avoid office gossip and feminine feuds. They never betray the confidential trust of their firms.

The business girl cultivates a quiet manner and concentrates upon her own affairs.

She learns to conceal and control her moods and excel in amiability and merit.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Start to Build Child's Character Early in Life

A child's training should begin at birth. The most important period for character building is from birth to the age of five years. Even at the earliest age desirable habits of conduct can be formed.

Dr. Copeland

The first lesson that a baby must be taught is regularity. The child should be fed at regular intervals, whether asleep orawake. Many mothers hesitate to wake the baby when its regular time for feeding arrives. This is a mistake. A healthy, normal child will be the reward of good training. It may seem difficult at first, but a child can be trained to be as regular as a clock in its hours of feeding and sleep.

A breast baby should nurse at least 15 minutes, and not longer than 20 minutes, at intervals of three to four hours during the day, as advised by the attending doctor. Unless the baby is very weak, or underweight, the night nursing is not essential unless the child wakens during the night.

At six months no night feeding is necessary. If the child wakens and cries during the night it may be given a drink of water, or a mixture of milk and water so weak that after a few feedings baby will think it not worth while to waken.

One of the most injurious habits, both for mother and infant is to permit the baby to sleep with the mother. Usually the baby wakens several times during the night, nurses a few minutes, and goes back to sleep, only to repeat the procedure. By morning mother and child are exhausted, and the baby's digestion is upset.

Several problems may puzzle the mother of the nursing infant. One woman may have plenty of milk, yet her baby does not seem satisfied. It cries, and sometimes refuses to nurse after the first few minutes. If upon examination it is found that the quality of the mother's milk is good, we often find that the mother is of the emotional type, and that a nervous spasm of the tiny muscles around the milk ducts shuts off the flow.

It is a serious mistake to pick up a baby every time it cries. The spoiled child is hard to manage, and unwise training is apt to develop a little household tyrant. If a baby is well trained it should be allowed to do a certain amount of crying, which is its form of exercise. Unless the child is ill, it will soon quiet down and go to sleep.

A critical period in the baby's growth is the time when the teeth are erupting. This period is often complicated by the irritability brought on by sore gums, and the desire to eat unsuitable food from the family table.

At six months the child should be taught to drink from a cup and to have cereals added to its diet. Cooking cereals in vegetable water is an excellent way to securing vitamins. If cereals and vegetables are given at the proper time table food longings will be overcome.

Answers to Health Queries

R. P. C.—Q.—What would cause one to be short of breath with a choked-up feeling in the throat? I am a girl of 18, 5 feet 4 inches tall, weigh?

1.—This might be due to several causes. Have the heart and lungs examined, be sure there is no tendency to bronchitis. It is possible that the trouble may be due to nervousness or indigestion. Your doctor will outline specific treatment after examination.

2—She should weigh about 123 pounds. This would be about average for her age and height as determined by examination of a large number of persons.

Household Hints

Ink spots on carpets can often be removed by washing with warm milk and afterwards sprinkling with cornflour. The cornflour should be brushed off after 24 hours.

Varnished wallpaper which has been splashed with grease from the stove can be washed with a pailful of warm soapy water to which a tablespoonful of ammonia has been aded.

Contract Bridge -:- OFFICIAL SYSTEM As Adopted by Leading Authorities

By E. V. SHEPARD

Let Well Enough Alone

I continually teach that a satisfactory condition should not be disturbed except upon ability to improve it. The hand shown below illustrates how sound the advice is.

Neither side had any score toward game. Z made an opening bid of 1-No Trump that both A and Y passed. There were two sound reasons why B should have passed: first because he had no chance to go game; second because he had reasonable chances to defeat Z's declaration, with six diamond tricks plus a side ace. Instead of passing, B bid 2-Diamonds. All along Z had felt anxious over playing no-trump with so weak a suit as diamonds. He welcomed the opportunity afforded by B's declaration, to double for a bid by Y. A was helpless, and passed. Y bid 2-Spades, which was not encouraging to game hopes; perhaps contracting might have died short of game had B passed, but he made a rebid, by going 3-Diamonds. This rebid showed considerable suit length, so Z figured that quite possibly Y might be short of diamonds. There was so little honor strength outside Z's hand that he anticipated his partner's inability to bid game, in case Z bid only 3-Spades, and Z ventured an overbid of 4-Spades.

B won the opening lead with his K of diamonds. Y ruffed the second lead. He had two chances for going game. Y could win five-odd in case opposing trumps were divided 3-3 between opponents, in this way: Y could trump two leads of diamonds, win three trump tricks by leading spades, win three heart tricks and three clubs tricks; winning thus 11 tricks. In case one adversary held four trumps, Y could ruff one of them from his hand by leading established clubs, thus giving A-B one trick in each of the three suits diamonds, clubs, and spades. The first thing was for Y to establish clubs by pulling the outstanding ace.

Y led a low club from his hand; B played low to see whether his partner held the missing Q; Z's K won the trick. Fearing that B might hold three clubs to the Ace, Y dreaded risking another lead of clubs, lest A should ruff a third round of that suit, in case B led it. On the other hand Y dared not risk pulling trumps at once. Of the two evils he preferred to risk the third round of clubs being ruffed, so he led a second round of clubs, and B was in the lead. B led back a trump. Z won the trick, and let Y trump Z's last diamond, so that A could not lead a diamond in case he happened to hold four trumps and should be able to ruff a club.

Y next led three rounds of trumps, pulling all opposing spades. Then he was able to spread his hand for the balance of the tricks, winning five-odd. Of course Z's jump into game was a gamble, but B should never have afforded him the opportunity. Had the hand been played at no-trump, at best Z could have won only seven tricks. Probably Z would have led a club to establish the suit, in which case B would have won seven tricks straight.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Eating Chicken

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

A friend and I have been having a discussion as to the proper way to eat chicken. A says it is correct to pick the bone up in the fingers. That is what the paper is there for. B says it is wrong to do that. The paper is merely an ornament.

Everyone I speak to agreed with A, but I seem to remember reading that B is right.

Will you please settle this argument for me? A. C.

B certainly is right. The frilled paper is for "ornament" . . . although to me it never does "ornament" and should be omitted. We eat such messy things as chicken with our knives and forks.

Addressing the Widow

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. I have recently become a widow and some of my friends address the envelopes, when writing to me, as they did before I became a widow, while others use my given name with the prefix "Mrs." Which is correct—Mrs. John Jones, or Mrs. Jane Jones?"

2. Also are my calling cards which I formerly used correct now? READER.

1. The friends who address the envelopes to you in the same form as they used before your husband's death, are correct . . . Mrs. John Jones.

2. Yes. The form of name is the same.

CHANGES MADE IN WASHING MACHINES

Concealed Machinery and Simplicity of Operation Add to Appeal of Models

The last two decades have been remarkable changes in construction, operation and efficiency in electric washing machines, according to G. J. Lugibihl, manager of the American Washing Machine Company, at 436 Fourth avenue. He said:

"Twenty years ago women were deterred from buying an electric washing machine by their natural fear of machinery. There was a certain amount of danger in careless operation of the old type models, with their exposed machinery, belts, chains and levers. Today all machinery is concealed. In the newest types the wringer is eliminated entirely, a drier taking its place."

Proper care and lubrication will immeasurably lengthen the life of a good washing machine and prevent service and repairs, Lugibihl continued. Premature wear and failure of performance are largely due to carelessness and neglect, he said.

"Twenty-four years of experience have taught me that 80 per cent of repairs are directly traceable to neglect of the operator or owner. If the bearings are properly oiled every three months there is no reason why a modern machine should not give unbroken service for 20 years."

Recently several of Mr. Lugibihl's early customers have traded in old washing machines of an early type for modern machines. One of them, with a chain drive, had given faithful service for 21 years, he said. Another had been in use 18 years and the third for 15 years. These machines are by no means worn out, but have been supplanted because of the labor-saving innovations on the newer machines.

Davega hereafter will operate branches only in New York and Chicago.

Auto Demand for Plate Glass Slow

Demand for plate glass from motor car manufacturers is still slow, but the outlook is not altogether without some bright prospects, the American Glass Review reports. Production of plate glass during April was above the figure for March, but was about 58 per cent lower than in the same month a year ago.

MEET HELD BY FRIGIDAIRE

Speaking in terms of operation and performance, factory representatives of Frigidaire Corporation discussed advantages of the two-cylinder compressor and their meaning from a refrigeration standpoint at a meeting of salesmen, dealers and supervisors, held in the Schenley Hotel under the direction of Al Hattenbach, president of the Suburban Electric Development Company, local distributors.

Economy of operation, longer life and more reserve power to be drawn upon during hot weather when the refrigeration load is heaviest were advantages explained by the speakers.

The Frigidaire spring showing and food thrift exhibit, which is being conducted this month, has created much interest through the manner it brings out the actual economies that can be affected in the home by a good electric refrigerator, the local distributor said. Frigidaire dealers attending the meeting reported that the number of showroom visitors has increased greatly since the first of the month and that sales have shown a similar increase, Mr. Hattenbach said.

"Recent price reductions have of course had much to do with the public's continued interest in electric refrigeration. But at the same time, it is interesting to note, the bulk of our business has been among the higher priced models."

Idle Funds in Large Banks Increase Due to Administration Efforts

—By GEORGE H. SNYDER—

ATTEMPTS BY THE administration to increase the supply of bank credit through activities of the Federal Reserve Board and other government agencies are beginning to have real results. The accumulation of funds in New York banks has been responsible for the fact that several institutions have been looking for good discountable commercial paper in the Pittsburgh district. This is in addition to funds which some of the local banks are finding difficulty in putting to work.

Of course the improved position of the banks is a favorable development in itself, but the real object of the plan was to get the banks to actually put the money to commercial use. This phase of the program is slow in developing because the banks are extremely cautious about the paper they accept. In addition, organizations with credit sufficiently good to get funds would like to see their way more clearly as to the future of general business before going ahead on new projects. Besides they would like to know just what legislation Congress will produce before the end of the present session.

Federal Reserve Credit Shows Gain During Week

THE LAST WEEKLY statement of the Federal Reserve System showed that outstanding credit increased $69,000,000 to a total of $1,988,000,000.

The holdings of discounted bills decreased $6,000,000, which indicates that banks apparently do not think the time is ripe for them to add to their indebtedness and shows that most institutions are using the money pumped into circulation through the purchase of government securities to increase their liquidity.

The system did not materially reduce its efforts to help the situation by these purchases. Holdings of United States government securities increased $81,000,000 during the week, which is not far below purchases which averaged $100,000,000 for several preceding weeks.

Stock Market Getting Near to Cash Basis

CONTINUED DECLINES in brokers' loans indicate that the stock market is rapidly approaching a cash basis. This is a favorable feature since it indicates that, even if further large declines do take place, they will not be likely to bring about new forced liquidation.

Loans on stocks and bonds to brokers and dealers by reporting Federal Reserve member banks in New York City decreased $24,000,000 to a new low of $414,000,000 in the week ended May 18. This compares with a previous low of $438,000,000 on May 11 and with $1,631,000,000 on May 20, 1931.

BARGE TRAFFIC INCREASES

ST. LOUIS, May 23.—Tobacco shipments transported on barges of the Mississippi Valley Barge Line Company for the first three months of 1932 showed an increase of 500 per cent over the same period of 1931, according to L. Wade Childress, president of the waterway transportation concern.

The bulk of this tonnage originated at Owensboro, Henderson and Hopkinsville, Ky., and was moved by the company's barges down the Ohio River to Cairo, Ill., and thence down the 1,000-mile stretch on the Mississippi River to New Orleans. The majority of it was transferred to ocean-going steamers at New Orleans for export to United Kingdom ports, chiefly Dublin, Ireland.

While sugar shipments, moving upstream, showed the greatest percentage of increase of any commodity carried by the barge line, tobacco led all other commodities in percentage of increase in southbound traffic. A considerable increase was shown in coffee shipments, the bulk of which were transferred from ocean vessels at New Orleans for re-shipment to nothern points.

Orders for Lumber Greater Than Cut

WASHINGTON, May 23.—Lumber orders during the week ended May 14 exceeded current production by approximately 13 per cent, but they were more than a third below the volume of new business received through the equivalent period a year ago, it is indicated in telegraphic reports to the National Lumber Manufacturers' Association from regional manufacturers' associations covering the operations of 653 leading hardwood and softwood mills.

PROGRESS MADE ON BALANCE OF TRADE

Survey Shows Relationship Of Creditor and Debtor Countries Nearer Normal

Definite progress was made in 1931 toward re establishing more normal trade relationships between debtor and creditor countries, according to a review issued by Dominick & Dominick. Many debtor countries increased their favorable trade balances or changed an unfavorable balance to a favorable one, thus placing them in better position to pay interest and amortization charges on their external debts.

At the same time, the review points out, the trade of the creditor nations, with the exception of that of the United States, continued to be characterized by an excess of imports over exports, indicating that they were accepting at least part of the debt charges owing them in the form of goods. While the United States had a favorable balance, it was less than half as large as in the preceding year, amounting to $334,000,000 as compared with $782,000,000 in 1930.

Imports of the debtor countries in 1931 were 35.2 per cent smaller than in the preceding year, while the creditor countries reduced their imports only 21.8 per cent. The value of goods shipped abroad by the debtor countries declined only 22.8 per cent from the level of the preceding year, whereas exports of the creditor nations declined 31 per cent. The most important consequence of these changes was that the debtor countries had an aggregate favorable trade balance of $1,010,000,000 in 1931 as compared with an unfavorable balance of $79,000,000 in 1930. If the indicated trends continue, debtor countries should soon find it much easier to meet external debt charges, according to the review.

USE OF PENNSY CRUDE UP

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., May 23.—(AP.)—Improvement in the statistical position of the Pennsylvania oil industry in 1931 and an increase in consumption of Pennsylvania oil was reported at the second petroleum and natural gas conference.

Ralph T. Zook, president of the Sloan & Zook Co., of Bradford, said in a paper read at the conference that statistics show the Pennsylvania industry is in the best position it has been for a number of years.

He said that consumption of Pennsylvania grade oil has been greatly increased, refinery runs, drillings and crude oil production are being regulated to meet market demands, lubricating stocks have been reduced and crude oil inventory is only sufficient to insure a healthy working arrangement.

RUSSIAN WHEAT EXPORTS NEAR TO END

No Grain Shipped From Black Sea Ports During Four Weeks Ended May 19

Not a single bushel of wheat was cleared for export from Russian Black Sea ports during the four weeks ended May 19. This period constitutes the most protracted slack since 1929 in Russia's campaign to make huge commodity shipments which help her repay credits extended for the purchase of industrial equipment.

Exports of wheat for the season to date have been only 70,480,000 bushels, compared with 89,824,000 in the like period last season.

However, since May 4, Russia has purchased nearly a dozen cargoes of Australian and Canadian wheat for importation at Vladivostok. This will be used to feed soldiers quartered in that territory, where the crop was badly hit last season.

CROPS SLOW

The Soviet government has not issued an official estimate of the wheat crop harvested last summer, from which this season's exports have been made. However, advices to the United States Department of Agriculture and private sources indicated that the sowing process was slow, and that the crop probably was not materially in excess of the 860,000,000-bushel estimated home needs. Russia has made many contracts with foreign governments for wheat exports. These were filled from the collections, which, however, showed a tendency to be very tardy, particularly from collective farms, where peasants with a goods shortage and a tight belt placed personal interests before those of the state.

ESTIMATE CUT

The heavy exports last fall were partly from the surplus of the huge 1930 crop. The estimate on that big harvest has, however, been officially revised downward to 989,000,000 bushels, from 1,084,000,000. Thus, the surplus from that crop, after deduction of home needs of 860,000,000 bushels and actual exports in that crop year of 111,000,000 bushels, was not very large. Therefore, Russia at present probably has no wheat to ship.

Soap Prices Drop In Recent Weeks

NEW YORK, May 23.—Considerable unsettlement has developed in recent weeks in the price structure of most lines of soaps, accentuated this week by a rather sharp cut in laundry soaps made by one of the larger companies. Prices have declined by probably an average of 7½ per cent within the past three weeks and current prices are off more than 15 per cent from a year ago.

HOPE FOR BUCS IN BOLSTERED CORPS

THE NEWS OF Heinie Meine's signing with the Pirates, after a holdout of almost six weeks beyond opening day, is made all the more gratifying by the supplementary announcement that the veteran right-hander is so near to being in pitching shape that he will be able to start taking his regular turn on the slab within two weeks, and will be available for relief duty before that time. It will be a break for the Bucs if Meine can repeat his performance of 1929 after a similar holdout, when he won his first five games after a late start on May 31.

Heinie Meine

A showing on that order will be required to make up for what Meine's holdout has cost the club in a playing way. Not merely have the Corsairs been deprived of what he represents individually as a winning pitcher, but his absence, with Remy Kremer out of commission, has put such a strain on the remainder of the staff that only Steve Swetonic, who allowed by one run and 11 hits in his four victories up to date and pitched 26 straight runless innings, has been able to escape a fall before normal. It will take some tall going to make up for what has been lost, but all's well that ends well, and Meine's return, with Kremer soon to follow, improves the pitching department to such an extent that there is every promise the course of the Bucs from now on will be steadily forward.

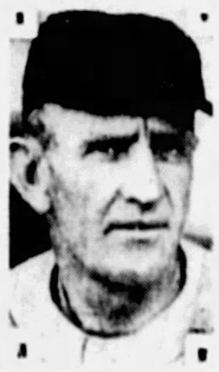
COL. JACOB RUPPERT, owner of the Yankees, gets almost as much of a kick out of the way some of the clubs and players in his chain store system are going as he gets out of the pennant drive of Joe McCarthy's gang. The showing of the Newark and Springfield clubs is a particular source of gratification to the Colonel.

And though Erie in the Central League has not been shining as a club, Ruppert is wild about a young catcher on that team named Hirschberger. The New York magnate declares he is a second Mickey Cochrane in the making. The youngster used to be an infielder and now he's headed for the Yanks as a backstop.

SOUTHPAW LLOYD BROWN, who won four games before tasting defeat this year and had much to do with the early winning streak of the Senators, is another case of a pitcher's making good eventually in the big show after a couple of failures with different clubs.

For Brown was twice released by major outfits before becoming established with Washington. The Phillies dropped him in 1923 after he had collided with Pete Behan and seriously injured the latter in batting practice, and Brooklyn cast him adrift in 1925 after using him in parts of 17 games.

AS ONE VETERAN figures it out, the difference between a pennant contending club and a second-division outfit is that the contender will put on extra pressure in the pinches and because of this added effort will finish on top in the majority of tight situations, whereas second-division teams will falter in the pinches. They will let the situation beat them instead of beating the situation. They lack the ability to fight against seeming fate. The ability to come through in the pinches does not lie solely in superior mechanical skill, he says. It is due mainly to will power, winning spirit, aggressiveness and competitive talent.



Casey Stengel

IT WAS NOT until the Pirate-Dodger series last week that Casey Stengel, back in the big show this year as a Brooklyn scout, got a chance to see the Waner brothers in action. He says he had heard a lot about them, but had to see them play to realize how good they are.

"I'd hate to be the one-man jury that had to decide which brother is the better ball player," Stengel remarked. "Each is about as dependable as an outfielder can be. Many outfielders are weak on grounders, but not the Waners. There isn't a better right fielder in our league than Paul. He plays the caroms off the grandstand wall at Forbes Field like a master.

"LLOYD CAN COVER so much ground in center field that the Pirates don't need a first-class outfielder in left. All that the left fielder has to do is protect the foul line and Lloyd will take care of the rest. He goes into left-center and makes hard chances look easy.

"They're pests in the outfield and even bigger pests when around the plate. If opposing outfielders play short for them the Waners are apt to hit over their heads. If the outfielders play back a ball is likely to be smacked over the infield for a basehit. I think the Waners represent more than half of the Pittsburgh club's power. If a pitcher is lucky enough to keep Paul and Lloyd in check at the plate he'll beat the Pirates more times than they'll beat him."

It isn't always because he's off form that a runner fails to equal or approach his own best records. The wind or some other condition occasionally is an adverse factor. On this score, track fans are being notified in advance that the running times in the final Olympic trials in Palo Alto the middle of July may be disappointing. The open end of the Stanford Stadium creates a funnel down which the wind blows in the runners' faces. That's why Ben Eastman ran his record-breaking 440 and 880-yard races on the old oval earlier in the season. Another Stanford sprinter says the atmospheric conditions in the Stadium are not understood by the general public; that only those with inside knowledge can conceive why fast runners make comparatively slow marks there sometimes. Of course, if the wind isn't blowing, it's a different matter.

IT WAS JUST 10 years ago that Gene Sarazen, then pro at the Highland Club here, won the open golf championship of the United States on the Skokie course at Glencoe, Ill., with a score of 288, beating out Bobby Jones and John Black by a single stroke. Now, after the lapse of a decade, Sarazen is figured as a strong possibility to win again.

This because Gene for several years was pro at the Fresh Meadow, where the 1932 title tournament is to be held, and knows that course like a book. He is always near the top in this annual tourney, and it is reasoned this familiarity with the course will make it doubly hard for rivals to keep him from taking the crown.

THE NO-FOUL RULE, which came into force with the adoption of the new protectors that are supposed to render foul blows harmless, is not observed in Toronto, but the boxing powers up there have a way of dealing with low hitters that has proved effective.

The first low blow brings a fine of $100 on the offender, and it is announced by the referee the instant the blow is struck. The next one costs the guilty boxer $200, the third $400 and so on.

Jack (Kid) Berg

ACCORING TO SUCH an authority as Jack (Kid) Berg, who is said to have taken more low blows than any other boxer in the game, mainly because he is always coming in and catches a punch lower than the sender intends it to land, the assertion that the new protective device keeps a foul blow from hurting is the bunk. "The no-foul rule is a good rule and I'm for it," said Berg, still a good card in spite of his defeat by Sammy Fuller last Friday, "but don't let anybody kid you that low punches don't hurt, even if you are wearing one of those new-fangled gadgets supposed to be foul proof. If you get hit squarely it isn't half bad, but a punch from an angle is no joke."

BUCS TO CLASH WITH REDLEGS TOMORROW

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

Although he went far out of his way in an unsuccessful effort personally to sign Pitcher Heinie Meine, persistent holdout, William E. Benswanger, Pirate president, today was in a happy mood as a result of the signing of the star sharpshooter, which took place yesterday in St. Louis.

It is altogether likely, however, that the Buccaneer prexy had something to say about the compromise contract which, apparently, brought Meine into the fold.

TO BE REINSTATED

Meine remains ineligible for play, but the lifting of his suspension is a formality which will require little time. Judge Landis, baseball commissioner, will have the final verdict to render and the white-haired czar is sure to be guided by the temper of the Pittsburgh officials toward the dissenter.

Benswanger was especially delighted over the report as to Meine's condition. After signing his new document, the star pitcher disclosed he had scarcely missed a workout of some kind all spring, and as a result he is able now to pitch a part of a ball game. Within a fortnight, he is likely to be able to do the full distance.

Meinie won 19 games for the Pirates last season. He demanded a raise of something like 50 per cent before he would sign for 1932. The Pittsburgh club eventually went as high as 26 per cent over his pay of last year and then refused to go higher. It is likely both sides gave a little in yesterday's pow wow.

The clever righthander probably will draw down almost $12,000, less the proportionate sum as computed from the weeks he has missed. He is said to have received approximately $8,000 for his last year's work.

BUCS IN CINCY

CINCINNATI, May 23.—Their morale vastly improved as a result of the signing of Heinie Meine, as well as by the brilliant pitching of Steve Swetonic and Larry French, the Pirates arrived in Cincinnati today on top of their successful invasion of St. Louis.

The date is open on the Pittsburgh schedule, but they preferred to spend it in Redland rather than at the home of the world champions. When the schedule was drawn up, the date was utilized for a game with the Redbirds, but the St. Louis management wished to hold one of those synthetic doubleheaders yesterday, and their request was granted.

Gibson's hustlers are all set to open a three-game series with the Reds tomorrow afternoon. They will return to Forbes Field on Friday to clash with the Cardinals.

The dual bill brought one of those 50-50 parties. The Pirates copped the first battle, thanks to the brilliance of Steve Swetonic, who reeled off another three-hit game. The nightcap was won by the Redbirds. The scores were 5 to 1 and 5 to 3.

SWETONIC BRILLIANT

And speaking of star sharpshooters, the members of the Pittsburgh club will not allow anybody to carry on an argument on hurlers without bringing Steve Swetonic into the picture in a hurry. They have much cause for their pride in Steve, too. The owner of three shutout successes just missed another goose egg party in the first clash of yester-

The ultimate goal of every young boxer beckons three "local boys" within the next eight days.

To meet the champion of the world in his class, even if the title is not at stake, because of overweight conditions, the fulfillment of a dream cherished since early preliminary days.

Battling Gizzy

The goal is before Battling Gizzy, the Donora lightweight buzzsaw, tonight, when he meets Tony Canzoneri, the world lightweight champion, in the 10-round main bout of the reopening show in the Meyers Bowl outdoor arena in North Braddock.

On Thursday night, it will be before Herman Folino, of Ambridge, as he sits in the opposite corner from Johnny Jadick, the junior welterweight champion, at Hickey Park, Millvale.

Next Monday, young Teddy Yarosz, of Monaca, has his big moment in opposing Jackie Fields, the welterweight ruler, in the Meyers Bowl.

This succession of battles against champions provides promising local talent its greatest opportunity since the halcyon days of Harry Greb, Johnny Ray and Jack Zivic, and should prove a great stimulus for boxing hereabouts, if the homebreds succeed in making creditable showings.

JAMMED BOWL ASSURED

A packed arena is assured for the Gizzy-Canzoneri clash tonight and likely for the two other battles involving champions.

Canzoneri is a romantic figure of the sport, winner of three championships since he came out of New Orleans, a young Italian protege of Pete Herman, the bantamweight champion, now totally blind, living in the dark with his memories of ring greatness. The featherweight and junior-welter-

ROW MAY COST WALKER JOB

EBENSBURG, Pa., May 23.—(AP.)—A right hook, allegedly planted by Manager Walker, of the Clarksburg Generals, on the jaw of Umpire Gillium in Saturday night's game between Clarksburg and Johnstown at Clarksburg, may end the managerial tenure of the fiery leader of the Generals for the season.

President Elmer Daily, of the league, has made it plain that if accounts of the trouble reaching him are correct Walker will be suspended for the rest of the league's year.

In yesterday's tussles, the Cumberland Colts turned in a double victory over the Beckley Black Knights, winning the first game, 13 to 8, and taking the second, 2 to 0.

Lamaster, Charleston southpaw, was touched for only four hits as the Senators defeated Huntington, 8 to 1, at Huntington.

A six-run attack in the eighth inning enabled Johnstown to defeat Clarksburg, 11 to 7, at Clarksburg. The Generals were unable to hold onto a five-run lead.

State to Select Best Athlete

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., May 23.—Selection of Penn State's outstanding athlete for the year will be made Wednesday by a committee of members of the School of Physical Education and athletics staff. The title, conferred annually since 1929, is given to the Lion athlete who has contributed most to Penn State athletics for the year.

Steve Hamas, now a leading contender for the world heavyweight professional boxing championship, was the first to receive the distinction while other winners were Martin S. McAndrews in 1930 and Frank Diedrich in 1931.

U. S. Women Stars Leave for Tourney

LONDON, May 23.—(AP.)—America's victorious women golfers will leave today for Saunton, in north Devon, where the British women's championship will be played, starting Friday.

The American team of Helen Hicks, Mrs. Glenna Collett Vare, Maureen Orcutt, Mrs. O. S. Hill, Virginia Van Wie, Mrs. Leona Cheney, Mrs. Harley Higbie and Marion Hollins defeated a picked British squad at Wentworth, 5½ to 3½.

Allison on Edge For Cup Battles

PHILADELPHIA, May 23.—(AP.)—Wilmer Allison, Texas star whose play has been one of the bright spots in winter and spring tennis, apparently is ready to handle both singles and doubles assignments against the Australian team in the Davis Cup matches here next Friday, Saturday and Monday.

Playing against John Van Ryn, his doubles partner, in a special match before a group of officials of the United States Lawn Tennis Association at the Philadelphia Country Club yesterday, Allison won two out of three sets, the scores of which were not announced.

YALE EASTERN CREW HOPE

NEW YORK, May 23.—(AP.)—Yale apparently will be the eastern crew to beat in the Olympic eight-oared final trials at Worcester, Mass., in July.

The Elis, beating Cornell by the slim margin of three feet, one-fifth of a second, in the Carnegie Cup race on Lake Cayuga at Ithica Saturday, not only finished its sprint season unbeaten but immediately were installed as the chief eastern hope at Worcester July 7, 8 and 9.

It was a magnificent victory that Yale earned at Ithaca. Cornell, making its first start of the season, was a slight pre-race favorite, twice overcome a full length advantage piled up by the Eli eight, stroked by Johnny Jackson, only to lose out by feet in one of the most spectacular races in Eastern rowing history. Princeton was a well-beaten third.

This week Cornell will attempt a comeback in a triangular regatta against unbeaten Syracuse and Harvard at Cambridge. Penn, Columbia and Princeton will be matched in the Childs cup regatta at Philadelphia.

Loretta Turnbull Regatta Victor

GARDONE, Riviera, Italy, May 23.—(AP.)—Loretta Turnbull, youthful Monrovia, Cal., motorboat pilot, won the first heat of outboard competition for the Fasano Cup at the opening of the third annual international regatta on Lake Garda yesterday.

Miss Turnbull won by 50 yards, covering the 12 kilometers in 12 minutes 24 seconds. Her younger brother, Rupert, was forced to drop out because of motor trouble. In the second heat Miss Turnbull got off to an early lead but finished in sixth place, another brother, Raymond, placing just ahead of her.

AUSTRIA NEAR TITLE

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, May 23.—(AP.)—Austria's soccer football team held Czechoslovakia to a 1-1 tie yesterday and virtually clinched the European cup.

DAD PREVENTS PLANE RIDE

Looking the picture of health and beaming championship confidence, Tony Canzoneri, world lightweight boxing titleholder, arrived in Pittsburgh this morning from New York to box Battling Gizzy, home pride, in the 10-round main bout ushering in the season at the Meyers Bowl outdoor arena in North Braddock tonight. He was pleased by the fine weather and the news that the show promised to be a sellout of the arena's capacity.

Tony refused to predict the outcome, saying he had heard stories that Gizzy is a hard man to fight, but vouchsafed the fact that it would be a good battle.

Canzoneri was accompanied by his father; his manager, Sammy Goldman; his trainer, Lew Fink; Eddie Borden, another manager, and Charley Massera, the heavyweight, who is on tonight's card.

Plans to make the trip by airplane were hit in the head when the father of the champion demurred.

Asked about the ultimatum of the National Boxing Association that Canzoneri sign immediately to defend his title, Manager Goldman said he had accepted a match with Billy Petrolle under the auspices of New York's Madison Square Garden and that the bout was to be held next month, but was set back to July to avoid a conflict with the Max Schmeling-Jack Sharkey bout on June 21. Since then Petrolle has asked for a further delay, saying he prefers the bout in August. He wants more time to make the lightweight poundage comfortably.

If Petrolle cannot be prevailed upon to box Canzoneri in July, Goldman said, Canzoneri will defend the title against Kid Chocolate then, with the winner meeting Petrolle later.

Gizzy spent the night in Canonsburg after having broken camp at St. Michaels, Pa., following Saturday's training session. He was scheduled to go to Braddock to be weighed, along with Canzoneri and the other boxers in the show, at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

A light program of racqueting looms this week as district college tennis squads swing into the final stretch of their brief spring campaign. Local varsity outfits, indeed, will wind up hostilities before another Sunday rolls around. Carnegie Tech, terminating its season by playing host to Washington & Jefferson on the Morewood Cut rectangles this afternoon, and Pitt and the Dukes calling quits after tussles abroad at Grove City and Geneva, respectively, next Saturday.

In addition to the Skibo-Presidents frolic today, Grant Siverd's Dukes and the considerably improved Waynesburg aggregation will tangle on the Bluff. Thus far, the nearest the Hillmen have been able to approach the victory roster has been an abbreviated deadlock with W. & J. a fortnight ago.

The intersectional play-off for city high school honors of the Interscholastic Tennis Conference and initial leg on the handsome new silver goblet placed up for competition recently by the Pittsburgh Tennis Association was originally billed for the Pitt rectangles today, but according to advices will not be staged till later in the week.

The P. T. A. Inter-Club League race got under way successfully Saturday with eight powerful squads stepping into Section I action as Section II performers enjoyed a day of rest. Inasmuch as next Saturday is part of Memorial Day week-end, the P. T. A. circuit racqueteers will loaf, but both sectors of the loop will be on the job full blast on June 4.

Kiski Valley net fans will sit in on the lone racquet card definitely set for Saturday, as Drs. Dave and John O'Loughlin and their P. A. A. teammates, Jack Lauler and Sullivan, trek to Vandergrift for exhibition singles and doubles affairs on the five fine municipal courts of that community.

German Wins, Prince Is Killed in Grind

BERLIN, May 23.—(AP)—Manfred von Brauchitsch, of Germany, driving a Mercedes-Benz, won the feature race of the international automobile and motorcycle carnival conducted by the Allgemeiner Deutscher Automobile Club yesterday.

The races were held on the Avus track between Berlin and Potsdam, a distance of 294.426 kilometers. Von Brauchitsch covered the distance in 99 minutes 30.4 seconds, an average speed of 194.4 kilometers an hour.

The entries from six nations included Sir Malcom Campbell, of England, world's speed record holder, who was forced to drop out early in the race on account of a defect in his car's oil pipe.

The race cost one life, Prince George Lobkowicz, of Melnik, Czechoslovakia, dying in a hospital from injuries suffered when his Bugatti car overturned on a curve early in the grind.

CHAMP OUT FOR A STROLL

GIZZY BOXES CANZONERI

weight championships have passed into and out of his grasp, but the lightweight crown remains with him. That and a sizable fortune collected for his efforts in the ring. One of the most colorful and likeable personalities in boxing, he is at the same time one of the most capable a good boxer, a heavy puncher and a master ring general. Pound for pound, probably the best combination fighting machine now holding a championship.

RUGGED FIGHTER

Against this three-time champion is pitted a young man just past his majority who claims as his chief attributes remarkable endurance and a fighting spirit. A youngster who got into the fighting business as the "king of the kids" back in Donora, an appellation that became his when he was able to beat all of the boys in his neighborhood in street battles.

Gizzy is no part of your polished ring gentleman. Battered ears a well-thumped countenance bespeak his rugged fighting style. His way it is to keep rushing and punching from bell to bell, tirelessly, in a fashion discouraging to the stoutest of opponents. A hard, well-directed punch merely causes his fighting spirit to flare higher.

Tonight Gizzy will put his primal instincts against the finesse of a finished ringman. He hopes to keep Canzoneri back on his heels defending himself from swings that come seemingly from nowhere in a never-ceasing storm. He will give his best fearlessly. He knows no fear in the ring. To him Canzoneri is just another opponent, another one of the Sammy Dorfmans, Eddie Andersons, Roger Bernards that have come before and have bowed to his stamina and persistent punching. Canzoneri may knock him out in a punch, but if he does Gizzy will go out trying. And, of Canzoneri tires under the onslaught, Gizzy may go on to add another famous foe to his growing list of ring victims.

KILBOURNE MEETS HARRIS

Canzoneri figures to outclass this raw fighting youth in the matter of ring science. But others have figured to have this same bulge over him and have failed to check his climb. Anything is possible when untamed youth with an unorthodox, puzzling style plunges into battle backed by a fighting heart and the will to win.

It's Gizzy's night. A victory may lead to a match with the title at stake. The prize is worth fighting for. And Gizzy enters the ring with several weeks of hard training in the mountains under his belt and with his manager, Abie Witz, declaring him in the finest fighting condition of his career.

Jack Kilbourne, of Chicago, a ranking middleweight sensation, makes his local debut, pitted against Harry Harris, of Bellaire, O., in a special six-round bout following the windup. In an eight-round preliminary, Jack Kearns, of Ripley (Believe it or not), W. Va., who has been in there with the great Jack Dempsey in one of the latter's exhibitions, boxes Charley Massera, heavyweight of Charleroi, Pa., and New York.

Patsy Hennigan, of Clairton, meets Al Schulo, of New York, in the second bout of six rounds and Panther Brown, of Salem, O., boxes George (Young) Bordell, of New Kensington, in the opener at 8:45. The boxers will weigh in at the Bowl at 3 p. m.

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 23.—Those St. Louis Browns didn't wait for the June conventions to nominate themselves as the Washington club's jinx for the year. They are the only outfit in the circuit that can make the senators look like Congressmen, and they proved it in their very first series with us.

Nick Altrock

Achilles had a bum heel, Napoleon had a Waterloo, and we've got the St. Louis Browns. Every time we play 'em it's Friday, the 13th, for us.

We've got no alibi for the way they make our boys look like suckers and the only explanation I can offer is that there must be an extra needle in that St. Louis beer.

W. P. I. A. L. HAS TITLE CHANCE

By JESS CARVER

The chances of the good old W. P. I. A. L. (District VII) track and field stars of regaining the state championship which they lost to the power-house combination presented by District 1 last year, at the annual P. I. A. A. meet in Altoona this Saturday would appear to be very tasty. The boys exhibited real class in the annual titular meet in the Pitt Stadium Saturday, not only in competition but in arguing as well. New Castle has the league championship by two-thirds of a point, but the chances are that once New Brighton's protest is lodged and taken up by the decisions committee that the Beaver Valley school will wind up with the trophy.

The following men are eligible to represent the league in the state meet at Altoona:

Sprinters—Fegler, South Union; Pryor, Ford City.

Hurdlers—Lasky, New Castle; Ordich, Midland; Sirouss, Ellwood City; Grimm, New Brighton.

Mile run—McCombs, Midland; Doulden, Norwin.

High jump—Lewis, Rankin; Sharp and Danner, Tarentum and Allison, Beaver Falls.

Broad jump—Worthington, Dunbar; Grimm, New Brighton.

Weights—Netherland, Beaver; Lasky, New Castle; Weston, Turtle Creek.

Javelin—Wilson, East Huntington; Sewiski, McKees Rocks.

LASKY BIG STAR

The performance of Andy Lasky, New Castle's all-round star, in the meet in the Stadium was as brilliant as any ever turned in by a W. P. I. A. L. athlete. One first place and two seconds gave Lasky 13 points. He was ready to add to the total, too, but league rules prohibit participation in more than three events. Lasky would have been a potential point winner in the low hurdles, the broad jump, pole vault and javelin, besides his victory in the high timbers and his second places in the shot and discus.

Lasky had to share the spotlight's glare, however, when it came to individual performances with Fegler, the astoundingly fast sprinter. The South Union lad rated no better than a third choice for either the 100 or 220 prior to the start of action, as Odeal Pryor, Ford City Negro ace, who was credited with a 9.9 hundred in the Geneva Interscholastics, was counted on for two victories.

Fegler, exhibiting the fastest start seen in high school competition hereabouts in years, had the situation well in hand by the time his flying heels passed the halfway mark in both races . . . and then had the old stuff to fight off the desperate challenges of Pryor in the last few yards. He'll make a strong bid for state championships in both races at Altoona.

PANTHERS ELATED

Pitt was greatly elated over the decisiveness of its victory over West Virginia in the dual meet at Morgantown, even though its crack sprinter, Woody Harris, twice took the dust of West Virginia's ace, Fraser. It was Pitt's first win over West Virginia in track for some time.

Carnegie Tech was beaten by Temple, but Capt. Tom Coulter covered himself with glory with his three firsts. Geneva defeated Westminster by an unexpectedly large score. Allegheny had little trouble with Grove City, and Wash.-Jeff wound up its campaign by bowing to Western Reserve.

Johnny Luch Wins Three Sport Letters

Johnny Luch, Pitt star, is a three-letter man in sports for the current college year. He has been awarded his letters in football and boxing and will be similarly rewarded in track. Only two Pitt men, Jimmy DeHart and Speedo Lauchran, have won letters in four sports.

The fate of the East-West Negro Baseball League will be determined at a special meeting of the circuit this evening in Philadelphia. With some of the teams unable to pay the guarantees and other clubs not drawing there is a movement on foot to try and induce the New York Black Yankees and the Pittsburgh Crawfords to enter the circuit.

Owner Gus Greenlee, of the Crawfords, will attend the meeting, but the local owner has not decided whether he will withdraw his club from the Southern League to enter the East-West loop. The big question in Greenlee's mind is whether or not two major league Negro clubs would pay in Pittsburgh. The Homestead Grays already are members of the league.

GAMES TONIGHT

Three games in the City League top the sandlot card this evening. The undefeated Book team takes on Art Rooney's North Siders at Olympia Park; Dormont goes to Pleasant Valley to meet the Frank Ferris club, and Homewood invades Bloomfield to hook up with J. L. Thomas.

Only one game will be played in the West Penn League this evening, the Martins traveling to St. Clair. In the Greater Pittsburgh League, Immaculate Heart goes to Verona and Jenkins meets Iroquois.

The Grays scored their tenth East-West League victory at Newark, N. Y., yesterday as they walloped the Newark Bears, 17 to 3. The Grays and Newark will stage league contests at Greenlee Field tomorrow and Wednesday, both games to begin at 6:15 o'clock. This will mark the first appearance of the Grays in the new enclosure.

DORMONT TOPS AKRON

Dormont went out of town yesterday and defeated the Akron Goodyears, 6 to 2, at Akron. In the West Penn League, the St. Clair Frogs walloped Turtle Creek, 11 to 1, and in the Greater Pittsburgh circuit, the McGraths blanked Snee, 7-0, and Immaculate Heart trimmed the Griffins, 6 to 3.

PRO-AMATEUR PLAY ON TODAY AT WILDWOOD

By TOM BIRKS

The second pro-amateur 18-hole medal play tourney of the season will be staged over the links of the Wildwood Country Club this afternoon by the Tri-State Professional Golfers' Association, and from interest indicated Vince Eldred and his associates are going to have a much larger field on hand today than competed at Shannopin two weeks ago.

The first tourney found Fred Stout Jr. and Charley Manning, the home professional, flashing great golf to win.

This afternoon the home combination will consist of Nelson Zimmerman, the home pro, and Tom Higgins, chairman of the greens committee, and a mighty good golfer.

WOMEN AT EDGEWOOD

At Edgewood, Toots Erath is looking for the greatest influx of golfers of the season. The women are holding a special 18-hole medal play tourney. The affair is open to all club member or not. The entrance fee is only $1 and the entire proceeds will go into the coffers of the welfare fund.

Charley Manning, popular Shannopin pro, will be the only notable absentee from the local National Open qualifying round at Oakmont one week from Monday. Sixty-three of the best players in the district will vie for the seven allotments from this section.

Mrs. J. P. Lewis and Bruce G. Mackey, local golfers, scored aces yesterday. Mrs. Lewis made her hole in one on the No. 4 green at South Hills, the first time a woman ever has accomplished the feat at South Hills and one of the few to be made by a woman in the country. Mackey's tee shot on No. 13, at 135-yard hole, dropped into the cup at the Butler course.

The Kiski Prep golfers will meet Pitt at Saltsburg this afternoon. The undefeated team, led by Capt. Bill Mercer, is eager to add the conquerors of Notre Dame to its list of victories.

SHAW PASSES SPEED TEST

INDIANAPOLIS, May 23.—(AP)—Wilbur Shaw, of Indianapolis, and Carl Aspen, of Philadelphia, yesterday qualified their cars for the annual 500-mile automobile race to be run here May 30.

Shaw pushed his eight cylinder rear drive car around the course at an average speed of 114.326 miles per hour. Aspen, driving an eight-cylinder, near-stock car, averaged 108.008 miles per hour.

Twenty-three drivers have qualified to date. Lou Moore, of Hollywood, Cal., with an average of 117 miles per hour, has clinched the pole position. Forty cars will be permitted to start and trials will continue every day this week.

Three minor accidents occurred yesterday, but no driver nor riding mechanic was injured. Fred Merzmey, of Denver, Colo., crashed into the wall on the first turn in a practice spin in a four-wheel drive car. The machine was so badly damaged it was said to be out of the race.

Arthur Tyson, of Detroit, also lost control of his car in the first turn during a practice spin. The frame of the car was damaged.

Leon Duray's two-cycle speedster caught fire on the back stretch while being warmed up, but the flames were extinguished before much harm was done. Duray was uninjured.

It was announced that Stubby Stubblefield, who recently set several new world's records for four-cylinder straightaway speed, will pilot his record breaking mount in the race here, providing it qualifies.

day as he worked his third three-hit game of the season. Steve happened to get a pitch in Pepper Martin's alley and Pepper snapped the shutout string of the native Pittsburgh youth with a homer.

In his four masterpieces of pitching Swetonic has allowed one run and only 11 hits. Three of his feats saw him in three-hits classics while the other big achievement brought the enemy but two safeties.

Paul Waner remained on his batting rampage in the prelude. The little slugger rammed out four more hits, making it eight bingles in two consecutive games. He was flagged down by Bill Hallahan in the second contest.

The Buccos reached Hallahan for a dozen hits in the second fight, but the Redbirds made their eight hits count.

BOZE BULGER, NOTED SPORTS SCRIBE, DIES

NEW YORK, May 23.—(AP)—Bozeman Bulger, one of baseball's best known reporters, died suddenly at his home in Lynbrook, L. I., yesterday from a heart attack. He was 54 years old.

He was a baseball writer for the New York Evening World for 26 years and also wrote magazines and a baseball play in which Christy Mathewson was the central figure. He recently completed a book on the career of John J. McGraw, manager of the New York Giants, who was one of his closest friends.

Bulger served in the World War as a major and later lieutenant colonel with the 306th Infantry, 77th Division, and was cited for bravery under fire in the Argonne offensive. He also served in the Spanish-American War.

He was born in Dadeville, Ala. Bulger was graduated from the University of Alabama with a law degree and worked for a time in the office of his father, William Bulger, prominent Birmingham attorney. He quit law work to become a reporter on the Birmingham Age-Herald where he finally became managing editor. In 1905 he joined the Evening World with which he remained until it was sold last year.

He leaves his widow and one married daughter.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow evening in the Masonic Temple at Lynbrook.

Burial will be in the National Cemetery at Arlington with full military honors. The funeral party will leave on a Pennsylvania train Wednesday morning, arriving in Washington at 1:15 p. m.

EVENING SUN-TELEGRAPH MARKETS

STOCK MARKET PRICE TONE FIRMER

Telephone, Eastman, Case, Westinghouse, Steel Up; Trading Volume Small

NEW YORK, May 23.—(AP.)—The stock market perked up a little today, after quietly absorbing a further sprinkling of liquidation in the morning.

Trading was still in small volume, but the ability of the market to hold fairly stationary during the past three sessions in the face of continued cropping out of isolated soft spots, was regarded as encouraging and apparently prompted further retirement of short accounts. Another advance in wheat was also a favorable influence.

In the early afternoon trading a number of issues pushed up a point or two above last week's final prices including American Telephone, Allied Chemical, American Tobacco B, Eastman, Case, International Harvester, International Shoe, Pullman and Union Pacific. United States Steel, New York Central, DuPont and Westinghouse got up the better part of a point. Consolidated Oil preferred shot up 6. In the early trading Industrial Rayon dropped more than 3 points, and Loew's, Public Service of N. J., and Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit were moderately heavy. Liquidation of preferred issues continued, resulting in numerous losses of 1 to 3 among these thinly traded issues.

The start of the new week brought little in the way of new developments of a character to impel the market far in either direction. Slight gains in steel and further urgings upon Congress to deal promptly with the government's fiscal affairs, brought some favorable comment, but financial quarters recognized that final acceptance of taxation, government economy and relief measures was still some weeks in the future.

Quarters holding that the first signs of important improvement should appear in bonds, were interested in gossip that the committee of 12 selected to work the Federal Reserve Bank might consider action to support the investment market. Some bankers pointed out, however, that it would presumably be extremely difficult to enter upon any ambitious program in bonds until the governmental requirements bay be gauged more accurately, or until Congress finally deals with its fiscal program.

The scattered selling that continues to flow into the market was still regarded in brokerage quarters as coming from individual accounts which, for one reason or another, are being liquidated. It was pointed out that selling of Industrial Rayon, following recent liquidation of Loews, seemed to bear out this theory.

Latest Events Have Revived Moderate Hope

By B. C. FORBES

HOPEFULNESS once again has displaced hopelessness.

STOCKS CLOSED the week with a modest net gain. Wheat scored a substantial advance. Steel production enjoyed an unseasonal rise of moderate proportions. Slight quickening of retail trade was reported from various centers. Cotton more than held its own for the week.

Mr. Forbes

On the other hand, copper dropped to the lowest price on record, silk touched a new bottom. Sugar, butter, eggs, pork sagged.

Employment reports were mixed.

THE MOST TALKED-OF development was the creation of an extremely influential New York committee, under the chairmanship of Owen D. Young, for the purpose of bringing about an increase in the expansion of bank credit and the employment of such expanded credit to stimulate industry and investments. Under the guidance of the Feders. Reserve banks, similar committees are contemplated in each one of our 12 federal reserve zones.

Although the Federal Reserve has, through its purchase of government bonds from banks, made it possible to expand banking credit several billions of dollars, bankers heretofore have not adopted a more liberal attitude towards borrowers, with the result that neither business nor securities have been patently benefitted.

THIS LATEST MOVE, instigated by the Federal Reserve, is designed to create some semblance of constructive leadership by influential men of affairs. The truth is that thus far the administration has dwarfed the financial world in helpful initiative.

The financial world has every reason under the sun for exerting itself to the utmost to modify the extreme unpopularity into which it has fallen. The public verdict is that those who arrogated to themselves Napoleonic leadership when such leadership was fraught with danger to the people have miserably failed to exhibit dynamic leadership qualities during these days when leadership has been direly needed. The senatorial probe into stock market manipulation is not helping any.

Bankers, capitalists, corporation executives and other men occupying eminent positions will do well, therefore, to leave no stone unturned to make the new "prosperity committees" really effective.

THE FEELING GROWS that Congress is becoming convinced that the public bitterly resents dilatory tactics having a harmful influence on business and employment. President Hoover has succeeded in picturing recalcitrants in Congress as responsible for prolonging national nervousness. Such Hoover colleagues as Secretary Mills, Gen. Dawes and Federal Reserve Governor Meyer have emerged as forceful reconstructive factors, vigorously championing affirmative action.

Politician considerations may, therefore, induce rebellious representatives and senators to expedite the adoption of a rational tax program, sensible unemployment relief, provision for accelerating public construction and other action calculated to put an end to the existing demoralizing uncertainty.

This prospect has had something to do with the latest improvement in sentiment.

THE FUNCTIONING of the new "prosperity committees" is awaited with eager interest. The very first effect may become evident in the bond market. Commodities and raw materials may next be benefited.

EVERYONE agrees that impressive improvement in security values, in commodity prices and in buying of basic raw materials would, in all probability, mark the so-long-awaited turning point. All markets are so "thin" that they are unusually susceptible to either buying or selling in even moderate volume.

IS THERE NOW a fair prospect that the second half of the year will prove less unsatisfactory than the first half unfortunately has proved?

Building Contracts Gaining This Month

NEW YORK, May 23.—New construction contracts let in the 37 eastern states during the period May 1 through May 14 totaled $63,079,100, compared with $58,169,600 for the first half of April and $121,704,800 for the full month of April, according to the F. W. Dodge Corporation. In the comparable 12-day period of May, 1931, contracts totaled $146,916,000.

Atchison's Weekly Traffic Uncharged

CHICAGO, May 23.—The Atchison Railway, during the week ended May 21, handled 22,205 revenue freight cars, compared with 22,267 in the week previous and 30,049 in the like week of 1931.

STONE FLAYS PIT TRADERS

WASHINGTON, May 23.—(AP)—Chairman Stone of the Farm Board, not only does not intend to acquiesce to the proposal of the Chicago Board of Trade's president to dispose of stabilization wheat privately, but he thinks the plan is based upon selfish motives.

Replying to Peter B. Carey who asserted six members of the Board of Trade could dispose of all the Farm Board's wheat for cash at a steadily advancing price, the Farm Board's chairman said their purpose is not to help in the present situation, but to prevent the farmer organizing his business so that he, in a measure can control the method under which his products are sold.

Stone said the traders "look upon themselves as middlemen entitled by custom to take a heavy toll from American wheat producers for so-called services, which consist chiefly in the pocketing by themselves of the largest possible share of the consumers dollar." He added:

The orderly method of distributing as demand arises will be continued."

Surcharge Refused In West Virginia

CHARLESTON, W. Va., May 23.—(AP)—The Public Service Commission today denied increases in freight rates of intra-state shipments sought by railroads operating in West Virginia. The freight rate question has been before the commission since January 4, when, following similar action of the Interstate Commerce Commission in intra-state traffic, the West Virginia Commission allowed carriers to place surcharges on all freight except livestock and most agricultural products, pending a hearing as to their propriety.

Pan American Pete Proposal Approved

NEW YORK, May 23.—Stockholders of the Pan-American Petroleum and Transport Company today approved reduction in the par value of the common stocks to $5 from $50. They also approved the distribution on a share-for-share basis of stock in the Pan-American Foreign Corporation, to which the foreign properties of the company are being transferred preparatory to sale of those interests to the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey.

Investments Caused Sister To Call for Assistance, Quires Explains

CHAPTER XI.

"Where is Everett now?" asked the District Attorney.

"We have him under close observation."

"Then why shouldn't we get him up here right now," proposed Dougherty with an energetic swing of his powerful right arm. "He won't quibble with me. We'll put the facts right up to him and—"

But Dougherty never did finish that sentence. The door had opened and Capt. Israel Henry came to attention at the Commissioner's desk.

"Excuse me, sir, but there is a gentleman and a lady outside who want to speak to you. They say their names are Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Quires."

"Send them right in," said Thatcher Colt.

As we waited, Capt. Henry to lead in these unexpected callers our thoughts were busy with many speculations. More than 24 hours had passed since Edgar Quires received his sister's frightened message. During that interval Christine Quires had been murdered.

Where had Quires been?

SEEM PROSPEROUS

With a firm and confident tread Edgar Quires walked into the office of the Police Commissioner. He was older than the dead girl by at least 10 years; he had a large, rugged face with the reddish complexion of a sportsman out of training; a chew of a man, Colt said. His eyes were blue and his hair and mustache reddish, suggesting a mutation of the voluptuous gold hair of Christine. The brother was wearing an immense brown fur overcoat and held in his hand a derby hat. I would have said he was a prepossessing and prosperous-looking man.

Beside Edgar Quires stood his wife, a large, pale and nervous woman in a mink coat and a fashionable hat.

For a moment no one spoke. Capt. Henry closed the office door and in the silence I could hear the ticking of the watch on the wrist of the Police Commissioner.

It was Edgar Quires who broke the silence.

"Well, Mr. Colt," he said at last, "will you kindly tell me what is wanted?"

Synopsis

Lola Carewe and Christine Quires are mysteriously murdered in the former's apartment. Scorpions were the instruments of death. The police suspect Guy Everett, an actor. Lola had blackmailed him. Police Commissioner Thatcher Colt learns that a young Paris bank clerk named Basil Boucher, loved Lola. Edward Quires, Christine's brother, left his Rochester home for New York following the receipt of a telegram the day of the murders. Suspicion also points to Dr. Hugh Baldwin when it is disclosed that he purchased scorpions. Colt, calling to question Baldwin, finds him dead—from a scorpion bite! In Baldwin's desk Colt finds a statement in which the doctor says he accidentally poisoned Gaylord Gifford, Lola's husband. Lola's knowledge of this placed Baldwin in her power. She forced him to supply narcotics which she used to victimize her friends and later blackmail them. The statement says Vincent Rowland, aged attorney, was behind Lola's activities. Because of the lack of evidence against Rowland, Colt objects to his immediate arrest. A report from France says that Basil Boucher drowned himself after stealing money to buy Lola a ruby.

Now Go On

I brought two chairs forward and Colt invited them to be seated.

"I may say," added Edgar Quires, "that I do not have the slightest idea of why I am here, why I seem to be in the custody of the police, or why I have been refused any information whatever by the detectives who brought me here and who have acted with the most overbearing complacence toward Mrs. Quires and myself."

Here Mr. Edgar Quires cast an indignant glance around him, including the Commissioner, the District Attorney and myself in the wrathful sweep of his blue eyes. Mrs. Quires looked loftily at the ceiling.

"You don't know what has happened then?" asked Colt with quiet seriousness.

"I have not the faintest idea to what you refer or what has happened," Edgar Quires vigorously returned.

Colt did not immediately inform him of the facts, for that would have been a cardinal blunder. Instead he turned inquisitor.

"Did you receive a telegram from your sister yesterday?"

"I did!"

"Would you mind telling me what that telegram contained?"

"Is my sister in any trouble?"

"Answer my questions—please!"

"I do not understand why you wish to pry into my private and family affairs. However, you are the police and it is to be assumed that you have some good reason. Very well then. Against my wishes, my sister had been dabbling in the stock market. Her affairs got to be very entangled. She had even borrowed on her future inheritance. She considered that she was in danger of being sold out. She asked me to come to her assistance. I, of course, was willing to do that—although I made up my mind that it would have to be the last time; it was by no means the first time she had appealed to me. I decided to come to New York and go over her affairs with her. Mrs. Quires and I took a train down. On the train I realized that today would be a legal holiday, and that no business could be transacted on the stock exchange. Accordingly, we left the train at Schenectady, where my wife's people live, and celebrated the New Year's Eve with them. Today we took the train down to New York. When we reached Grand Central station, two bumptious and offensively conceited detectives accosted us. They insisted on our coming down here. We were kept waiting downstairs in a room with a man who was manifestly a convict—the dungeon pallor was on his face. Finally we were brought her into your presence. That is a plain and simple statement of the facts, Mr. Colt. Now would you be so good as to explain the situation to me?"

It sounded like the truth! And if so, what a disappointment! That telegram, then, did not refer to Christine's fear of her own life, but merely to a mix-up in investments—probably her margin had been overlapped. Had that fact played any part in her murder? Was she about to denounce Lola—or the mysterious Rock-Ribbed Securities Corporation? Or was Edgar Quires telling something less than the truth? He had given us a simple and straightforward story. Yet how much reliance could we place on it? My mind leaped instantly to the Ruth Snyder and Judd Grey case, under the administration of Commissioner McLoughlin. At the first inquiries, Judd Grey had offered what seemed an iron-clad alibi. He, too, had been in Rochester. If his story had been accepted, his alibi was airtight. He was nearly 500 miles from the scene at the time of the murder—but half of a green stub, the Pullman car ticket, had showed that he lied, and sent him to the chair.

We would have to take this story of Edgar Quires with a grain of salt.

Heart of a Wife

By ADELE GARRISON

Veritzen Will Abide by Madge's Decision

There was a long moment of silence after I had told Philip Veritzen that I could not believe he could be guilty of applying indirect coercion about my play as he had threatened, and that he was too big a man to stoop to anything so petty.

I was prepared to see him get up and leave the room with formal icy courtesy, or treat me to a royal rage such as Dicky is wont to stage, but I was distinctly not prepared to see the anger die out of his eyes and be replaced by a mirthful gleam which held more than a soupcon of respectful admiration.

"You are an opponent worthy of one's steel," he said. "I salute you as I yield my sword. I think you are making the mistake of your life, but I never met a woman yet who could be convinced against her will. If you ever decide to change your mind, will you let me know?"

"I shall not change my mind," I said quietly.

"We won't quarrel about that now," he said. "We'll take up this play instead. You are willing to let me have it?"

There was something subtly new in his manner, something which made me realize that I had something to sell and that he was a prospective purchaser.

"There are business arrangements to be made," he said tentatively.

I saw my opportunity to make amends for the apparent discourtesy with which I had treated his offer, and seized it.

SUGGESTS SEEING HUSBAND

"Please! mayn't I leave all that with you?" I asked. "I am so ignorant of all business procedure that I should only make a botch of things and I know my interests are safe in your hands."

"You never shall regret saying that to me, my child," he said. "But we must remember that your husband may not have the same confidence in me that you have. Don't you think I would better take the matter up with him?"

Again I fancied that the satyr look gleamed from his eyes. I knew the infinite possibilities for subtle attempts at humiliation and patronage that would lie in any discussion of payment for my play between my husband and the great producer. And surmised—perhaps unjustly—that Mr. Veritzen would welcome the opportunity to annoy Dicky in that manner.

But there was no need for me to worry over such a contingency. I knew what Dicky's answer would be to such a proposition, one which he would term "acting as his wife's tame cat and manager," and I put in a hasty disclaimer.

"Oh! not for the world," I said, feigning panic. "Mr. Graham detests any discussion of finances, and—while he has encouraged me in every way in my work I know that he would not wish to be associated with the business part of it in any way."

MADGE RESENTFUL

"Then will you let Harry or Lillian represent you? I shall insist upon one of them."

"If you insist," I said, smiling. "But I do not consider it necessary."

"Thank you," he said firmly, "but I do, and I will speak to Harry at once. Now for details.

"I shall want to begin casting the play almost at once," he went on, "and I shall need your advice constantly. Of course, you will have to come to the city and stay there during the casting and rehearsals—in fact, right up to the production of the play. I shall need you constantly for consultation. Can you be ready to start work next Tuesday?"

There was amazement as well as resentment in my heart as I heard his query so dismaying to me. But over and above the amazement and resentment there was another feeling, something which had come to me when he had so surprisingly capitulated in our wordless battle—our deadlock over his demand that I go under his tutelage for the stage work and my refusal to consider anything but my play.

There was something behind that sudden surrender which I did not understand. But illumination was coming to me, a theory that Lillian had voiced when I had had my first tilt with Philip Veritzen over going away with Dicky, a theory which I resolved to test again, if need be, before the end of our colloquy.

"Surely, Mr. Veritzen," I said, "I have misunderstood you. You do not mean next Tuesday."

SUN-TELEGRAPH-WARNER THEATERS JUNIOR KOMIC CLUB

William Zeiler, new manager of the Enright Theater, told the youngsters who attended the meeting Saturday that, for the boys of this neighborhood who came to the meeting next Saturday, he would have a great surprise. So, kiddies, don't forget to attend this meeting.

Dolly Fritz and Ruthie Miller, dancing instructors at the Enright, are very much pleased with the results they have obtained with the 16 youngsters they picked to represent the dancing school in the "Komic Club Frolic," which the youngsters of this chapter will offer in about four weeks.

Who's the champion pie eater among the members of the Cameraphone chapter? This question will be settled Saturday when Earl Roeser, the new manager of the Cameraphone, conducts the pie-eating contest for boys and girls. Members of this chapter are requested to be on time and cheer for their favorite "pie-eater."

PLENTY OF TALENT

The management of the Warner Theaters will not have to worry about the juvenile talent for the contemplated "Pittsburgh On Parade" revue scheduled for presentation at the Stanley Theater in the near future. When the managers of the various outlying theaters where the Junior Komic Club meetings were held Saturday announced that amateur acts were wanted for this big revue scores of members stepped up and put in their applications for an opportunity to appear. And there is plenty of real talent among those youngsters, some of it natural, but much of it acquired in the study of the art of dancing, music and elocution. Many of these kiddies have already appeared in public, and when they get into big company on the stage of the Stanley they'll make the audience sit up and take notice. There will be a lot of tryouts at next Saturday's meetings.

The announcement that the Warner Theaters-Kennywood Park frolic will take place July 14 and that the members of the Sun-Telegraph Junior Komic Club will be expected to attend in a body, brought rounds of cheers at Saturday's chapter meetings. There will be a special program of athletic events for Komic Club members at this picnic.

he's never in a hurry.
The women are wasp-waisted

They wait upon their men, I'm vain.

The children (they have plenty,

Who dozes in a corner with a

And if a Spaniard's wife's dis-posed to gad around a bit,
She's parked behind an iron grill

No Excuse for Delay

Congress Should Enact the $5,000,000,000 Prosperity Loan, as Representative Kelly Suggests.

Senator Borah's warning against an adjournment or recess of Congress until it has taken adequate action on the pending relief measures should bring both the members of the Senate and of the House to an appreciation of this pressing duty.

For Congress to adjourn, or even take a recess for the period of the Democratic and Republican conventions in June, without having acted on the question of relief, "would be an act of poltrooonery," says Senator Borah, "and a betrayal of the public interest." And, he sententiously adds:

"If anything will call into existence a third party, that would."

Both houses of Congress have been singularly inert in responding to the nation-wide demand for a $5,000,000,000 federal loan to alleviate the present unemployment crisis.

But light is dawning in new quarters each day. A congressional mass meeting in support of a prosperity loan is in contemplation, backed by the House of Representatives' "steering committee," which is composed of both Democrats and Republicans.

As Representative Clyde Kelly, of Pennsylvania, a member of this committee, said:

"The sentiment seems to be strongly for a public works program that would actually put men to work, to be financed by a bond issue of $5,000,000,000 more or less—whatever amount is necessary."

Gentlemen of Congress, why falter and delay in well doing? The prosperity loan should be enacted. The country demands it and awaits it. Your failure to meet popular expectation in this matter will not be forgiven.

"HE THAT SOWETH SPARINGLY, SHALL REAP ALSO SPARINGLY; AND HE THAT SOWETH BOUNTEOUSLY SHALL REAP ALSO BOUNTEOUSLY."

Take Off the Blinders!

"Congress," said the New York American and other Hearst newspapers on May 17, "should disabuse its mind at once of any idea that Senators and Representatives can justify before the people a reckless sacrifice of the public interest to the selfish political ends of candidates for re-election.

"The imperative duty of Senators and Representatives in Congress is to adjourn politics and forget partisanship in a united effort to aid the people and serve the nation.

"What the plain people demand is that Congress shall balance the budget by a tax bill that will improve business conditions and not make them vastly worse than they are at present.

"What the plain people demand is that Congress shall do its legislative best to rehabilitate agriculture, commerce and labor, revive business, reduce unemployment and restore confidence."

It's high time Congress took off the blinders of petty politics and local self-interest and viewed the nation as a whole.

Federal Government Dare Not Shirk

By Claude G. Bowers

Author of "The Struggle for Democracy in America," "Founders of the Republic," "Jefferson and Democracy," "The Tragic Era" and other important war s. now writing for the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

The possibilities of a congressional adjournment before the conventions have gone glimmering. The country is in the depths of the gravest crisis and there is much to be done before Congress can afford to adjourn. The propaganda stuff of the enemies of American institutions that the country would gain were Congress to adjourn is pure piffle. Nothing was done until Congress met. We are unable to join in the enthusiasm over what the President did without Congress during the nine months' recess.

The Rev. Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick, who at least is as conservative as common sense, has just made an observation in harmony with the comments of this column for more than a year. He finds it disturbing to public confidence to find that there has been laxity in Washington "in working out a program of social and economic reconstruction."

We still have elder statesmen and "pillars of business" who are stupid enough to believe that we can muddle through these dismal years to a return to old industrial and economic conditions. We are where we are because of these conditions; we will never get back to the highway of prosperity and security until these conditions are changed. This is a new age; and our institutions will meet the challenge of this new age in the making of some drastic reforms or we will go under before many years.

Congress Would Be Apt To Burn Its Fingers

And Congress dare not adjourn, dismissing the terribly human problem of the unemployed and of the millions without sufficient food properly to sustain life, with the levity of a smug gentleman flecking ashes from his cigar. For Congress would be apt to burn its fingers in the attempt.

Government has something to do with human beings.

The framers of our institutions seemed to feel that its primary purpose is to serve human beings.

Of course we must balance the budget if we can; of course we must take all proper steps to prevent the further collapse of business; but of course we must face the fact that the unemployed are increasing, that human misery is deepening; that human patience under torture has its limitations.

And of course Mr. Hoover's assumption that the federal government has nothing to do with "individuals," which means the people generally, must be abandoned.

Americans Have Starved—Are Starving

Mr. Hoover at the beginning of the human crisis formally promised: "No one will be permitted to starve in America."

And Americans have starved—are starving. It is the record of the daily papers. The implication of the Hoover statement was that the national government would not permit Americans to starve.

Then he reduced his original statement to a pious hope with another statement that the national government would not do anything to prevent starvation that would mean a penny from the national Treasury.

He announced that the business of preventing starvation rested with individuals, with which national government has "nothing to do." Private charity would do the work—and private charity has failed. It has done much, but, because of the financial depression in every family, social service organizations have received less in contributions, when they need more.

Then the President shifted to the thought that in a national crisis the national government should be let off and that municipal, county and state governments should bear the burden of the nation. Many of these have done much; the municipality of New York City has accomplished wonders; but these no longer can carry on. With conditions worse instead of better, they have about reached, where they have not reached, the end of their resources.

And there, facing the national government, still stand millions of men, women and children, with pinched pale faces, hungry, desperate, their arms extended toward the national government at Washington.

The government will not dare turn its back on these any longer.

Most Annoying to The President

We have not rendered a notable, patriotic service to our national government by acting on the theory that the federal government—the government of the republic—merely deals with money and business matters. It deals with human problems like all other civilized governments if it justifies its existence.

We have not endeared the national government to the millions of the masses in dire distress, from no fault of their own, by permitting it to wash its hands of human misery.

Senator Borah has just said in the Senate:

"We cannot longer expect the states or the cities or the local communities to deal with a situation which is national in all its significance and which, in my judgment, must be dealt with as a national problem. In order to do that we must necessarily incur additional expense, regardless of what the plan may be. Some outlay on the part of the government must necessarily follow; and we had just as well face it, acknowledge the responsibility, and proceed to the completion of a federal unemployment program. It is war, it is a contest for the preservation of the government; but furthermore it is a contest for the preservation of the character, the physical and moral well-being of our people, and in that the federal government has a direct interest."

This sort of comment appears to be most annoying to the President and his Administration; and that annoyance is increasingly provoking to the people.

Launch a Prosperity Loan

There are two things that will be done if the Federal Government has any sense of its responsibility to humanity. One is, before it adjourns, to make provision for federal aid, where necessary, to prevent millions of American children from starving during the next winter. The other is to launch a prosperity loan to put men to work on public improvements having a permanent value. This plan has been urged for more than a year; and nothing has been done.

Because it is more imperative today than ever, the President has proposed a plan with specifications for not doing it. The Senate is now considering an unemployment program.

It has the sanction of such conservatives as Owen D. Young, of such business leaders as Bernard Baruch, and Senator Wagner has just published in the Congressional Record—the best newspaper on government that we know—the letters from scores of the economists of the colleges of the nation pronouncing the plan sound. This is not the time for statesmen to go "ultra-conservative" in dealing witht the most serious and solemn problem confronting the Federal Government—the problem of preventing children from starving in a land of illimitable resources.

For Congress to adjourn without taking any steps adequately to provide for bread and work would be an indictment of American institutions; because it would imply that the nation's government is not concerned with human beings. When the prosperity loan was first urged in these columns, solemn, heavy thinkers of the editorial columns of dignified journals smugly warned against the counsel of "hysteria."

Since when did it become "hysteria" to insist that starving children must be fed; or that men, denied their inalienable right to work, must be given the right to earn their bread in self-respecting toil? As Congress meditates on this subject we would have inscribed in letters of light about the dome of the Capitol these words of warning:

"A child's cry in the darkness curses louder
Than a strong man in his wrath."

Avaricious Squires

The Bar Association Might Extend Its Investigation of Shysters to Include Justices of the Peace.

The Bar Association might well extend its investigation of "ambulance chasing" and kindred practices to include the questionable activities of justices of the peace and constables.

There was a case in Criminal Court last week in which testimony was given that a constable called upon a merchant and solicited business. The merchant happened to have two supposedly bad checks and was induced to make informations. The defendant was found not guilty.

It developed that one information would have sufficed, and the jury, to penalize the squire for what it considered an unwarranted prosecution, placed the costs of one of the cases on him.

Again and again we have reports of avaricious squires and constables who go out of the way to foment litigation and institute prosecutions for trivial offenses, for the sake of the fees they may derive from them.

The late Chief Justice William H. Taft handed down a Supreme Court decision that convictions in a squire's court in cases in which the squire would personally profit, through fees, costs or fines, from a verdict of guilty are illegal.

This illegal practice persists uninterruptedly in Allegheny County.

Why does not the Allegheny County Bar Association do something about it?

Unselfish Teachers

Pittsburgh's Pedagogues Deserve the Citizens' Thanks For Agreeing to Refund Part of Their Pay.

Hats off to Pittsburgh's public school teachers!

Almost unanimously they have voted to accept a temporary cut of 10 per cent in their salaries. They have agreed to refund that much of their pay.

This will permit a reduction of about $1,000,000 in Pittsburgh's school bill next year, and will make it unnecessary to raise the tax rate.

The teachers have virtually made a present of $1,000,000 to the taxpayers of Pittsburgh. They deserve the citizens' thanks.

The situation which prompted this selfish, patriotic sacrifice by the teachers is paralleled in the condition of municipal finances.

Administration of the city's business as well as of the schools is imperiled by the falling off in tax payments. Since it is out of the question to raise the tax rate next year to pay off the deficit, it is incumbent that municipal expenses be reduced further.

Why should not the city officials whose salaries have not yet been cut follow the teachers' example and refund 10 per cent of their pay?

Women's Occupations

Some Curious and Significant Facts Are Disclosed in The Census Bureau's Pennsylvania Report.

The Census Bureau issued today a report on occupation statistics for Pennsylvania, based on the 1930 census. Thirty-eight per cent of the total population was gainfully employed at the time the count was made.

Some curious and significant facts are disclosed in the report. Those having to do with women are particularly interesting.

It is noted that the proportion of married women gainfully employed was 8.3 per cent in 1930, as compared with 6 per cent in 1920. The old question if it is right that a wife should be a wage earner outside of the home apparently is being answered in the affirmative by an increasing number of women.

Women's invasion of occupations formerly held exclusively by men is an interesting development.

In 1930 647 Pennsylvania women were employed as printers, 355 were engaged in banking, 42 were policemen, 113 were dentists, 123 were lawyers and 616 physicians.

There are still, however, a few fields of activity which men virtually monopolize.

The Census Bureau found only one woman plumber, only two women automobile mechanics, only four women electricians and four women painters.

There are no women locomotive engineers in Pennsylvania—as yet.

Man—The Perfect Host

The average man is a hospitable soul—far more hospitable than woman.

Every woman envies a man that cheerful nonchalance which makes him the ideal host. YOU know how it is!

When five people drop in for dinner, where only two were expected, a woman is panic-stricken. But a man never loses his poise. He serenely proceeds to fill them up with cordiality and cocktails, in the happy confidence that the Little Woman will work some sort of miracle with the loaves and fishes. "She always DOES!"

He simply can't understand why a woman gets so upset, when he breezes in, buoyantly on the maid's day off, dragging the unexpected guest—the Old Pal or the Business Prospect from Oshkosh. Or the genial soul he met in the speakeasy.

All she has to do, when that happens, is to receive the Innocent Offender cordially and make him feel at HOME, while she hustles around to enlarge the table and rustle the best linen—

* * *

Stretch the steak or doctor the stew and peel a few more potatoes.

* * *

Concoct a refreshing salad out of tin cans and run out and pick a fresh bouquet for the centerpiece, while the corn is cooking.

* * *

Give the bath-room the "once-over," get the guest-towels and open a new bar of soap.

Powder her nose, slip into a dinner dress and straighten her hair while the meat is broiling.

Have the melon cold and the soup hot—and announce dinner with the graceful nonchalance of a veteran social leader, or a trained butler.

Give the guest the tenderloin of the steak, the heart of the lettuce, the top of the cream and the last of the dressing.

* * *

Follow the conversation with her mind, while she follows the portions with her eye and nudges her husband's knee, when he urges "dear old Bob" to have a second or third helping.

* * *

See that the ice cream is kept solid and served at the psychological moment and smile brightly as she watches the cigar ashes drop upon her best damask.

Whisk away the dishes and restore order to the dining room. And then repair to the verandah, to serve and sip the coffee, with a casual air and a sparkling line of conversation—and the appalling consciousness that there's about two hours' cleaning up to be done, when the guest departs around midnight.

* * *

That's positively ALL!

* * *

And yet, no man has ever been able to make his wife SEE that perfect serenity, tranquility and poise are the essential characteristics of the Ideal Hostess!

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, May 23.—Diary of a modern Pepys: Came a picture of John McCormack from Old Erin, bearing a noble autographed sentiment. Also a letter from Bob Davis rebuking me deservedly for slothfulness in not being kodaked for his grand book. And after seeing it I could kick myself, too.

So, submitting to my surfdom until 4 of the clock and walking with Ida Verdon along Inspiration Point, watching a company of deaf from an institute drill. Then to a horologist, repairing my watch, and found a great philosopher, loving his job as a peasant the fields.

With my wife to dinner at the Paul Whitemans and a salad of pear, spread with cream cheese and flecked with malaga grapes as neat as ever I tasted. Then to a play and on to El Garron, talking to Jules Glaenzer, Louis Sobol and some others. And sent a long telegram to my mother-in-law, 78 on the morrow.

Mayor Walker continues his merry meandering without a bodyguard, a custom indulged by his predecessor for years. His Honor does not like such espionage and has a very definite notion that in an attempt at assassination it will be of little use. His only precaution seems his corner seat at the Casino.

Superstition of disaster, supposed to trail those about to move into new homes, was emphasized recently when three such owners met violent deaths. But these were rich prominents and their passings were auspicious. The truth is more than 20,000 occupied new homes in the metropolitan area within the year with no mishap whatever.

Gloomy retrospection is reminded that in a lifetime of residing in hotels I have never seen the removal of a dead body from hostelries. Such removals are through obscure back entrances between 4 and 5 a. m., when hotel patrons are in deep sleep and streets desolate.

Thomas Meighan, of the movies, had as overnight guest at his country place recently a gentleman who, upon retiring, placed his toupee on a chair near his bed. In the dining room, while breakfasting early, Meighan noticed his dog frolicking with a hairy object that turned out to be his guest's wig. After a scamper about the estate, up hills and down a few dales, the "rug" was retrieved, a mess. Meighan left for the city on the first train with instructions for the valet to break the news. He thought some of going on to Africa.

Due to my petty purchases in the stock market I am usually abashed by conversation of others concerning tradings and enormous losses. They seem to talk in telephone numbers. At a dinner the other evening conversation as usual turned to this gloomy theme. One gentleman seemed particularly garrulous about his affairs—a tiraading tycoon. I pictured him as one rigging the market for spectacular spurts and drops. Later, jockeyed into a corner with him, I inquired how heavily he had bought. "O," he replied, "three or four of us got together and bought one share." By contrast I felt so rich I was tempted to rush right out, hop a train for Philadelphia and take a big laugh at their jolly old mint.

And there is Bert Lytell's yarn of the sign in front of a certain bank reading: "Open daily from 10:30 to 2:30." And underneath it a wag had scribbled: "Optimists."

Also the thin vein of tragic humor in a Sixth avenue shop, opened a year ago, and now bannered with a red streamer in slightly dishevelled rhetoric: "Can You Imagine Anyone Making Such a Nutty Mistake!"

* * *

What so many of us do not appreciate these torrid days is that with everything else gone we still have that unassailable asset—good will—left. I was expounding this to Harry Acton, who popped in today. "Not only that," he beamed brightly, "I'm even luckier. I still have my skate sharpener."

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

Once upon a time there was a little girl who saw everything upside-down.

No, this isn't a fairy tale. It is the story of an actual girl's real illness, as reported in the Lancet, England's leading medical journal.

When she was born, and for many years afterward, this girl saw things just as you and I see them; then she received a bad mental shock. For many days she was pale and shaken. That passed, and her family thought the trouble was over, but it wasn't. Outwardly the girl was as normal as ever, but inwardly s o m e t h i n g was wrong.

Have you ever twisted the long wire of your telephone until it no longer carried messages clearly? That shock had tangled the "telephone wires" in her brain, until they no longer carried messages clearly. They gave her messages upside-down and hind-side-foremost. She saw the things which other girls saw, read the s a m e words, did the same tasks, but she saw a n d did everything topsy-turvy.

She thought the foot of her bed was the head, and made it up wrong end to. She wrote backwards, spelled orally backwards, added sums upside down and read books in the same way, turned pictures upside down so they would "look right." And because of this she lived in a miserable daze, feeling she was wrong, somehow, but not knowing what to do about it.

One day doctors took her and put her under hypnosis. Hypnosis—hypnotism—isn't "black magic." It is an artificial sleep, which temporarily lets the locked up mind relax and reveal itself. When the mind opens like that, it will take suggestions that it will not take when it is wide awake and cautious.

So the doctors took the topsy-turvy girl and, while she seemed asleep, told her how to see things straight; and when she awoke she saw things right-side-up again.

Doctors will be interested in the medical side of that story. Every unhappy or bewildered human being will be interested in another side of that story.

For we're all meeting life upside-down to some degree, and we all get that way through some hurt.

We don't literally SEE things twisted as this girl did, but we FEEL things twisted. We FEEL things hind-side-to.

When we started life we saw life straight, as she saw objects and words straight. We saw life as a big picture, revolving all about us. We did not understand what it was all about. We did not even try to understand. We simply watched it all, wide-eyed with wonder.

Then after a time our curiosity became sharper, more personal. We no longer took things as they came. We began to seek our place in the picture; began to demand an important and happy place in the picture; began to make plans.

And with awakening curiosity came rebuff; with plans came a certain amount of failure. People hurt us, disappointed us, angered us. So presently things weren't as simple as they had been. Some things looked big and black; some things looked small and mean.

Life was becoming twisted.

Life is still twisted in spots, isn't it, stranger? Those old childish hurts and fears, failures and justices—they still rankle, don't they? They still make you see some parts of life cockeyed.

You thought of that as you read this story of the hindside-to English girl? You wished, sadly, that someone could hypnotize you—take all the secret hurt and tangles out of your head and heart. If only somebody could do that for you!

Somebody can! You can do it for yourself. You can—if you're willing, and honest, and brave—open your own mind and search out your own secret trouble. Instead of hiding unhappiness deep inside you, you can drag it out into the light, look it over, compare it with the rest of life—and put it right-side-up in its place.

Do it now! Stop living in a hind-side-to, upside-down, topsy-turvy world of your own making!

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

An Adobe Road

I would ascend again the sun-baked ledges
That closely clasp the hill,
And from the crest would see the valley's edges,
A golden land, and still.
From the adobe roadway, rising, winding,
I hunger to behold
The climbing path, its sunlit whiteness blinding,
The hills, the haze of gold.
The humble flowers, smiling from the grasses,
The whip-poor-will's refrain.
The lambs that gambol up the hillside passes,
All these I want again.
These joys I want that tranquilly abound there,
The ease from care's sharp goad;
Ah, does it wait me still, the peace I found there,
Up that adobe road?

Isn't It So?

Some people boast about where and when they were born, but not why.

It's the little things that bother you. You can sit on a mountain but not on a tack.

If it wasn't for sleep people would worry over their troubles 24 hours a day.
